University Gift of 4 Acres To Aid in Preservation of Basin Park Area

Around the first bend of Alexander Street, out of your line of vision as you head toward Route One because you've got to watch the road, curving over canal and Stony Brook bridges, is a line of modest little houses, facing south.

All their addresses say "Alexander Street." But they're part of an area referred to more and more as "Basin Park," or even "Basin Street." The name comes from the abandoned turning basin for canal barges, now lost among the tall grasses and undergrowth, but soon to be cleared and freed and perhaps used as a berth for canoes.

Princeton University has just donated to the Township four acres of land between Alexander Road, the Dinky's railroad tracks, the canal and Stony Brook. The basin is included in the acreage.

These four acres adjoin--separated only by Alexander Street--the six acres the Township already owns, the parcel known as the Houghton-Castora Tract. The state, of course, owns the entire Delaware and Raritan Canal and hopes, some day, to develop its entire length for recreation.

The University's gift is a particularly happy development for the Historical Society of Princeton, which has been quietly studying Basin Park for some time.

"Our aims are the same as the state's canal commission," points out Nancy Knox of the Society: "history, recreation and preservation."

Through its Preservation Revolving Fund, the Society would like to arrange protective covenants like those in such cities as Charleston or Savannah. These would assure that Basin Park houses would not be altered in proportion or facade.

"The Fund is particularly anxious to preserve the historical associations and architectural integrity of the neighborhood without changing its residential character," Mrs. Knox says.

There are seven houses in the area. All of them date from the mid-19th century and some may have been built by Charles Steadman. Six are in a row on "Basin Street". The seventh, around a curve and facing east, was moved two years ago from upper Alexander Street with money from the Revolving Fund.

Historians say the area was an important one in Princeton's growth. From about 1840 to 1870, it was a headquarters for the joint Delaware and Raritan canal and Camden and Amboy railroad. Custom houses and the collector's office were here. Hundreds of barges, sloops and even steampowered vessels passed along the canal and used the turning basin.

Council, Residents Stalled over Problem Of Parking for Those Who Live in Town

Like some hapless motorist forever circling Palmer Square in search of a parking slot, Borough Council and its audience on Tuesday night circled 'round and 'round the question of parking for people who live in the CBD - the Central Business District.

"We keep coming back to Bank Street!" protested Ralph Hult Jr., head of the Chamber of Commerce's Borough Merchants Assn.

And indeed the problem began there, when Bank Street residents approached Council with their problem: two-hour meters on the street mean that residents, most of whom have no driveways, have no place to park during the daytime. They would like slots set aside for them to rent in the Chambers Street lot.

Nelson van den Blink, Council member who has taken on the assignment, announced a special meeting for next Wednesday, May 19, at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. She warned that an ordinance might not be ready, but urged everyone to come and offer ideas.

In anticipation, everyone decided to offer ideas here and now. Palmer Square, Inc., in a letter from its president, Fred Blaicher, warned the Borough against an ordinance assigning Chambers spaces. P.S.I. will withdraw from Park-and-Shop if the Borough passes such a measure, Mr.

Blaicher declared. In his letter, he offered to rent parking spaces to people who aren't Palmer Square tenants at $50 for a three-month period. From the floor Tuesday night, he told Council he lives on Palmer Square West and said his wife would also like a loading zone as proposed for residents of Bank Street who have no place to unload groceries.

Mayor Robert W. Cawley explained that nobody could guarantee that such as zone on Palmer Square wouldn't be used by stores. On Bank, there are only residents.

Council member Martin P. Lombardo, who happens to live on Bank, said it was "criminal" to ask people to pay the $50-per-quarter parking fee "to a profit-making organization like Palmer Square." From the audience, his wife spoke at length about the difficulties of parking on Bank.

Murray Medvin, Council member, said he didn't think the fee was very high - 50 a day - and Mr. Hult said it was the most reasonable rate in town. Mrs. van den Blink observed, apropos of Mr. Blaicher's threat to pull out of Park-and-Shop, that the Borough subsidizes that operation.

"We were getting $7,200 a year in the Borough's part of that lot, and in '75 we got only $2,000 because of Park-and-Shop", she said.

Everett P. Garretson, of H.P. Clayton, explained that merchants can't survive without adequate parking for customers, and he suggested formation of a committee to study the problem.

"Let's not wait for the ultimate study and the perfect answer," Mrs. van den Blink replied. "I am determined to find a solution, but we are not yet quite ready with one and we need ideas. There are conflicting needs for the Borough's limited space."

One Bank Street resident observed, "We may be shoved out of Princeton if our problems aren't solved. Is it worth it to the Borough, to have us live here?"

And from the audience came the genial observation, "If you like Florida, you put up with hurricanes. If you like Princeton..."

In other business, Council decided to hear recommendations for a street to be named for Paul Robeson. One suggestion is Avalon, because it has no residents and therefore no one to be inconvenienced. Mr. Lombardo suggested Walnut Lane because it's near two key schools.

Committee passed, 4-1, the $300,000 bond ordinance for purchase of Quarry Park, Joseph P. Moore voting "no." Thank you," said Robert McChesney, leader in the neighborhood fight for the park.

STILL FAR APART

On School Budget. Chances for compromising the difference between the school board's budget position and that of Princeton's two governing bodies appeared remote this week after Monday's two-hour conciliation conference with the county superintendent of schools.

"We're so far apart!" exclaimed Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley Tuesday. He reported that Borough and Township governing bodies agreed to a budget cut of $225,000. But the school board's figure is only $65,000.

The school board believes specific cuts proposed by Borough and Township are illegal. These include salary increases and sabbaticals for a total of about $180,000.

IT CAN'T BE... and yet there is no denying the familiar resemblance of this mystery man who appeared at Borough Hall Friday. For more, see Page 9.

Borough and Township officials aren't convinced these cuts would be illegal, Mayor Cawley said.

Cut Dollars, Not People. "Eliminating salary increases - that's about the most easily implemented cut you could make, much easier than firing people," he said. "Contracts aren't signed yet, but it may be illegal - or at least bargaining in bad faith - to go back on an oral agreement."

"On the other hand, we feel strongly it's wrong to foreclose the voters' interests in the area where the largest and easiest cut could be made."

The town governing bodies also suggested that the school board defer payment of pension money. However, the state Department of Education and the New Jersey School Boards Association have advised boards to include it in the budget, the mayor said, even though some towns have left it out.

"We're still open," Mayor Cawley said, "We could have 'given' a bit more, but we're so very far apart! All of us and commerce flourished. The red Railroad Hotel, on the corner of Canal Road and Alexander across the canal in West Windsor, was the key building for the entire area.

Deterioration Develops. Facing the houses, in the small triangle of land that is now a kind of village green, there was an Episcopal Chapel, a mission of Trinity Church. It stood on the site from the 1860s until sometime in the 1920s, when it was given to a camp for Episcopal choirboys in West Mantoloking.

Then the Pennsylvania Railroad and its branch line - the Dinky - came along. Bypassed, the Basin area languished. When industry left, the houses became cheap places to live. People who occupied them had no money to keep them up, and they began to deteriorate.

In recent years, owners and tenants have devoted more time and care to the little houses, and today gardens are in bloom and lawns trimly green.

The Historical Society, Mrs. Knox emphasizes, does not want to own these houses - "we're not going into the real estate business" - nor is the Fund limited to activities in Basin Park. And, of course, there are no teeth in the Fund's efforts, no ordinance requiring sellers and buyers to work through the Fund. However, Mrs. Knox says the city of Annapolis, Maryland, worked successfully without an ordinance to preserve buildings and areas that are historically important.

Unified Plans. There is happy juxtaposition in the state's recreation plans for the canal, the Township's tentative proposals for its waterfront recreational strip, now four acres bigger than it was, and the Society's hopes for the residential part of the Basin.

"It would make a marvelous entrance into Princeton," Mrs. Knox believes.

Plans are already being made for volunteers to clear up the area. The state inadvertently closed off the turning basin from the canal by filling in the tow-path. The basin is now stagnant, but it might be opened up and used as a boat landing.

The Township's Environmental Commission has plans of its own for the six-acre Houghton-Castoro tract. The Historical Society has retained Zion and Breen, landscape architects, to work out a plan, and Society officers asked the Commission if it were locked in to its own plans.

Not at all, assured Commission chairman H. Philip Minis, adding that his group would prefer joint develop-

Delay Foreseen. Zion and Breen incorporated into their design an old proposal to realign Alexander along lines originally suggested by the Mercer County Planning Board. Although the actual position of the road has not been laid down, it would basically go in a straight line from where it now bends, to the straight-away in West Windsor.

Mr. Minis is realistic about the chances for this realignment in any near future. There are three streams to cross: the little one that feeds Stony Brook, the Brook itself and the canal. Princeton Township, West Windsor Township, Mercer County and the State of New Jersey would all have to get together....and find money.

"It doesn't seem immediate," he says with a wry smile.

He believes, however, that the re-alignment is crucial for any development of Basin Park for recreation. Peak traffic goes along that road. Canoeers and picnickers would have to cross a heavily-traveled road to get from boat launch to picnic table or parking area. Another snag for canoeers is the reluctance of canoe concessionaires to move into the area. They have told Mr. Minis that in summer, when students have left, most of their business would fade away. They say that 40 percent of the customers at the Kingston canoe-rental are off the bus from New York, and that anyway, most canoeers want the Millstone-canal round trip, which Princeton can't offer. Besides, they say, Stony Brook is often dry - then what?

Incidentally, the University has attached three conditions to its gift of land. Foreseeing traffic jams of canoes and racing shells, it doesn't want its right to limit boat traffic on the lake impaired. Also, University officials want to be sure the re-alignment of Alexander isn't prevented in any way, nor do they want a big access point with parking and picnic-tables right in the middle of their campus.

Subdivision Due. The University owns more land in the area - in fact, sub-division will be necessary after the Township accepts the four acres - including the green triangle in front of the houses where the Chapel once stood. John P. Moran, vice-president for facilities at the University, says he can't say right now whether the University will donate any more. The four acres is all in the flood plain and could not be built on, "except a boat-house," he says.

The Society's Zion and Breen studies were financed by $1,000 from the Revolving Fund, matched by money from the Mercer County Historical Commission, which is anxious to encourage towns themselves to move ahead in preservation projects because there isn't any state money available.

The Revolving Fund itself was largely assembled through the efforts of its chairman, Lewis B. Cuyler. Other members are Alfred Busselle, Constance Greiff, Lawrence Norris Kerr, William Brennan, L.V. Silvester and Mrs. Knox. It was this committee that was instrumental in negotiating the University's gift.

Mr. Minis likes to look ahead to a day when a restored Railroad Hotel might be the headquarters of a canal recreation area, perhaps with displays of artifacts from 19th-century industry, booklets for sale, refreshments and a pleasing view of canal-side.

Mrs. Knox sees the Basin Park houses preserved and enhanced as lived-in homes, a compact neighborhood living as harmoniously with the canal of today and its canoes and rowboats, as with the barges and sloops of a day gone by.

came back from Trenton very discouraged."

Matter of Principle. Dietrich Meyerhofer, board president, said he planned to talk with the board in executive session this Tuesday to see whether board members were interested in changing their point of view. "It's a question of principle," he explained. "If cuts are illegal, we cannot compromise. But we will have a discussion and we may or may not get back to Mayor Cawley."

The pressure to reach a decision before the tax rate was struck has been lifted slightly. Mayor Cawley said apparently deadlines weren't met, and the May 10 date for striking the rate has been moved to the end of this week, giving both school board and governing bodies more breathing space to work out a possible compromise.

If they cannot, the next word will be from the state, setting a date for formal hearings. These may come in about two months, the mayor said.

Monday's conciliation hearing was attended by Mayor Cawley, and Council members Gus Escher and Martin P. Lombardo for the Borough; Elizabeth Hutter and Margaret Broadwater for Township Committee; Dr. Meyerhofer and Joan Doig for the school board; Superintendent Philip E. McPherson, board secretary William Evans and business administrator Ronald Novak for the school administration.

Attorney Gordon Griffin represented the municipal officials and Thomas Cook, the school board. Commissioner Edward Callahan was the only county official present.

STUDENTS SCORE WELL
In State Tests. Students in grades 4, 7, 10 and 12 in Princeton's public schools came away with top honors in last fall's state-wide tests, according to the State Department of Education. Tests were given to 1,012 Princeton students in these four grades in reading and mathematics. The tests, administered throughout New Jersey last November, were designed by Educational Testing Service under contract with the state.

Grouped with the 50 highest socio-economic communities in the state -- the highest-performing group in the state in terms of test results -- Princeton students came out as follows:

Reading: Princeton's fourth-graders did as well as, or better than, the highest-performing group in 99 percent of the items; seventh-graders in 93 percent of the items and 10th and 12th-graders in 100 percent of the items.

Math: Compared to scores of the highest-performing group in the state, Princeton's fourth-graders did as well or better, in 100 percent of the items; seventh-graders in 95 percent of the items, tenth-graders in 100 percent of the items and 12th-graders in 95 percent.

Marked Improvement. "There is significant improvement in both reading and math scores for both seventh and tenth grade over last year," commented Dr. Charles G. Huchet, director of student services for Princeton schools. "We're doing better than holding our own."

For example, in the previous tests, given in 1974,

10th-graders were "roughly equivalent" to the top-performing group in 74 percent of the math items and "significantly higher" in 13 percent. In reading, tenth-graders were "roughly equivalent" in 76 percent of the items, and significantly lower in 19 percent.

Dr. Huchet said it was difficult to account for the improvement. Items are changed each year so that schools and teachers can't "teach to" the test, he pointed out. Dr. Huchet declined to comment on any differences between elementary schools in Princeton. Tests are atomized into items, he explained, and a school whose pupils do well on one item in math, for example, might do less well on another single item.

"The state discourages any emphasis on building differences," he remarked. "The idea is to have each building examine its own results."

"From now on, under Thorough-and-Efficient education requirements," Dr. Huchet said, "Princeton and other districts will have to follow up test results 'more assiduously and uniformly.'"

"T. and E. will compel us to work even more with test results," he predicted, "there is heavy emphasis on assessing the needs of the student, setting up programs and looking at results. This inevitably will mean more testing, and we must examine our overall testing effort, changing some tests and emphasizing 'criterion-referenced' testing."

Timing Outlined. This means the kind of testing in which results are related to the student's own capabilities and the goals of the local system, rather than to broad norms.

Princeton won't be ready to introduce everything right away in September, Dr. Huchet said, adding, "It would be a big mistake to rush into revised testing programs. We must establish our goals and assess our needs first."

The 1975 test results have been available to students and parents since February. Group results were released to schools in March, initiating a 60-day period for analysis by teachers, principals, Dr. Huchet's staff and administrators.

State guidelines called for schools to see how results compared with local goals, and required a school system to compare results with all other students in the state, students in Mercer County, students in similar communities (suburban towns, in the case of Princeton) and students from communities with a similar socio-economic makeup. In the latter, Princeton was grouped with the 50 highest socio-economic groups in the state. This group was also the highest-performing group in the state.

Copies of test results are available for inspection in the main office of each school, the public library and the school board office in the Valley Road building.

FBI CHARGES THREE

In $80,000 Rug Theft Here. Three Brooklyn men are being held in jail in Brooklyn, charged by the FBI with interstate transportation of 70 rugs valued at $80,000 which were allegedly stolen Thursday from Robert H. Kahn's antique rug and textile store on the corner of University Place and Alexander Street.

The three, arrested Saturday, were identified as Anthony P. Ferrante, 50; Vincent F. LaMorte, 42; and Seymour Weinberger, 48. They are scheduled to appear before a U.S. Magistrate.

Working with the FBI and conducting the Borough phase of the investigation is Det. Charles Harris. No Borough charges have been filed yet, according to Capt. Theodore Lewis, but if the evidence gathered warrants it, he said, there will be charges of breaking and entering and robbery.

Four men in their 20s took part in the robbery which occurred during the noon hour, while Mr. Kahn was in Philadelphia in business. Three entered and seized the 32-year old clerk.

Her ankles were bound, her eyes taped and her wrists handcuffed behind her. Police said that after her life was threatened, the clerk opened a large walk-in safe. She was then forced into a rest room.

The rugs were from Mr. Kahn's collection of antique and semi-antique Caucasians, including Eagle Kazaks, Shirvans, Dagestans and Turkomans. Capt. Lewis said that it appeared that the thieves were not very familiar with the rugs or their value.

A fourth robber reportedly stayed behind in a large, yellow van with the name

"Long Island Rug Cleaning Company" lettered on its side. Del. Harris checked the phone books, found such a company existed and notified the Trenton office of the FBI. He was informed later by the FBI that the truck had been observed and was under surveillance.

According to Louis Giovanetti, special agent in charge of the FBI in New Jersey, evidence recovered in the arrest of the three suspects in Brooklyn led to an address in Teaneck, where agents, armed with a search warrant, recovered 47 of the stolen rugs. More arrests are expected, Mr. Giovanetti said.

After the robbers had departed, the clerk, who police declined to identify, managed to struggle up to Mr. Kahn's upstairs apartment where she was able to remove the phone handset and dial police. The thieves had cut the wires to the store phone. Borough police responded at 12:49 and used a bolt cutter to remove her handcuffs.

Mr. Kahn said that the rugs were only partly covered by insurance.

BYE, BYE GYPSY

State Sprays. The twin-engine plane you heard at 6 a.m. or so on Tuesday was the state sprayer going after gypsy moths. Got 'em, too.

But Township Committee, uneasy about spraying, will introduce an ordinance next Monday (8 p.m., Township Hall) requiring registration of all commercial sprayers and the filing of notices before spray jobs.

Committee will also hold public hearings next Monday on two ordinances. One will increase license fees paid by bars from $1,030 a year to $1,150 and the fee paid by package-goods liquor stores from $515 to $615. The $150 a year club liquor license will remain the same. The second ordinance authorizes the Harrison-Valley traffic light.

The Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority's position paper on the proposed sewer system was discussed briefly at Committee's work session this Monday, and may be discussed further next Monday night, with possible action for or against.

VOL XXXI, No 10

Committee adopted a resolution asking the state to abandon the present I-95 route for one less costly and less damaging ecologically — such as the New Jersey Turnpike.

Committee also agreed to make a formal request of the state to allow the Township to cut back plans for the recreation area across State Road from Community Park. It is understood that the state will agree to such curtailment.

Just in case the state has some highway money, the Township is in line. Committee decided to apply for state road resurfacing funds. In other action, Committee hired Joseph Martin, as a real-estate appraiser in the forthcoming J. Seward Johnson appeal to the State Board of Taxation. Mr. Martin is a former tax assessor. His fee is $35 an hour, and Committee agreed to a $3,000 maximum.

UNIVERSITY WINS

In Discrimination Case. Superior Court dismissed on Wednesday a sex-discrimination suit brought by Ilene Peper against Princeton University.

Mrs. Peper, who said she might appeal, had named the University's board of Trustees and six administrators in a suit filed in 1974. Until she resigned from the University in 1973, she was coordinator of training and communications for the institution's personnel office. She charges that the office denied her promotions twice because she is a woman.

Judge Clifford C. Bennett said in his dismissal that there is "no direct evidence that the fact the plaintiff was a female had any bearing on the issue of her promotability." He did say she was apparently not promoted in the same fashion as other employees in the personnel office, both male and female.

According to Thomas H. Wright, lawyer for the University, the personnel office has been "strongly committed" to fair-employment practices since before Mrs. Peper filed her complaint and that she had wanted to be promoted to a job others — including women — were more qualified for.

Stanley M. Adelson, Mrs. Peper's superior when she resigned, said all defendants have been working on Affirmative Action policies, whose implementation would make sure women and minorities are hired.

Mrs. Peper's attorney, Katherine Trenner, said the University has indeed been discriminatory, and has admitted discrimination against women until 1972.

THEFT REPORT

Government Machine Taken. "We had a lot of larcenies this week," commented Capt. Theodore Lewis as he scanned the Borough police docket.

A micro cassette recorder was stolen during the weekend from Room 106 in Corwin Hall on the Princeton University campus. The property of the U.S. government, it was valued at $183.

A 9-inch television set and $5 from a wallet were stolen between 5:30 and 7:45 p.m. Monday from a student's room in the Graduate College (entry was through an open window) and the same day a graduate student had her wallet containing $2, a check and credit cards stolen while she was in the Frick Laboratory library.

Between 4 and 5 Sunday afternoon, a thief pushed in a screen of a student's room in 1903 Hall on the university campus, ransacked the room and departed with $15.

In thefts last week, a Lawrenceville resident reported the theft of four wire wheel hubcaps from his car while it was parked in the lot next to the Princeton Playhouse — value $75 each — and a Princeton resident listed the theft of a citizens band radio from beneath the dash of his car while it was parked near Guyot Hall on the University campus. It was valued at $140.

A pocket calculator worth $120 and a stereo cassette recorder ($200) were stolen from a room in 1937 Hall on campus. There was no sign of forced entry.

Returning home from a vacation, a Cameron Court resident discovered that several small plants in a rear patio area had been chopped and uprooted and a red antique clay pot valued at $100 was missing.

A BICENTENNIAL "THANK YOU!" Stanley C. Smoyer, head of the Princeton Bicentennial Commission, presents a certificate of appreciation to the Arts Council through its president, Anne Reeves. The "thank you" is for last year's Art-People Party the Bicentennial, and this year's Art-People Picnic. At the picnic, the Bicentennial Commission gave similar certificates to the McCarter Theatre Co. and the P.J. & B. Players for two presentations of "1776." In this photo of the Bicentennial Commission are, seated left to right: Pam Hearne, Constance Greiff, Christine Tibbals and Josie Hall. Standing: William Selden, Mrs. Reeves, Mr. Smoyer, Robert Staples and Richard Baker.

for ten minutes last week in the 20 Nassau Street building and when she returned her white leather purse valued at $110 was missing. Inside, police said, was $3 in cash and a change purse valued at $12.

When a Witherspoon Street resident heard noises on his front porch at 2 a.m. Thursday he investigated and discovered a loveseat missing. He glanced up the street and noticed two people carrying it away, police said. The victim gave chase but the thieves turned on Quarry Street and escaped. Someone entered an unlocked window of a Hawthorne Avenue home between 6:30 Friday and 2:30 Sunday afternoon and once inside, ransacked every room. Police report, however, that nothing appears to be missing.

AUCTION AT MORVEN
To Benefit State Museum. For the first time ever, Morven will be the scene of a fund-raising supper and auction Friday evening as part of a two-day affair to benefit the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton. The event will continue Saturday with an all-day country-fair auction at the museum itself.

Sponsored by the Friends of the New Jersey State Museum, the affair is being billed as "Acquisitions '76," and the sponsors hope to raise more than $50,000 with which to acquire fine and decorative art objects to broaden the museum's collections. More than 400 people are expected to attend the informal cocktail party and supper at the Governor's mansion where 60 objects, services and trips will be sold by silent bidding.

Of the $50 per person admission charge for the evening, $25 will be applied toward any purchase made during the auction. Dealers and collectors from across the country are expected to attend in addition to state dignitaries and scores of people associated with New Jersey's art and cultural life.

All items to be offered in the auction have been donated so that the money raised will be clear for museum acquisitions. Most of the items have been on display at the museum, and sealed bids may be submitted through Thursday.

Among the more unusual items being offered are a tennis vacation for two in California; Joe Namath's autographed football shoes; a box at Monmouth Race track July 4; a musical composition written in honor of the successful bidder; a live lamb; and a balloon voyage for two.

COMMITTEE LISTED
For Memorial Day Parade. In honor of the Bicentennial, this year's Memorial Day parade will be "the biggest we've ever had," according to D. Don Richards, the general chairman.

Sponsored by American Legion Posts 76 and 218, the parade will take place Friday evening, May 28, at 7. Bands, marchers, color guards and honored guests in cars will form on Princeton Avenue for the march up Nassau Street to the Battle Monument.

Assisting Mr. Richards are Post 218 chairman, Herman Richardson, Post Commander; honorary parade marshal and military liaison, Col. Donald W. Griffen, USA Ret.; monument master of ceremonies, Thomas J. Ward, Commander of Post 76; ministers, the Rev. William Tucker; parade assembly, Bernard Glover, chairman, with Gene Pierre and John Donaldson, assisted by Post 218.

Also color guard and firing squad commander, Jack Adams; cars for guests, M. T. Benedetti; finances, Fred Klink; graves decoration, David McCloskey; memorial

GARDEN PARTY MAY 15
 At Stuart School. The tenth annual Stuart Country Day School Garden Party will be held Saturday from 5:30 to 7:30 and will feature 30 watercolors by Karen McLean Peterson of Lawrenceville. Ms. Peterson studied at Cornell University, in London, Rome and New York City. While she was at Cornell, her paintings were purchased to decorate apartments decorated by Marcel Breuer. Formerly working boldly with oils and acrylics, Ms. Peterson now paints softer, muter tones on smaller canvasses.

The refreshment committee, headed by Mrs. Steven F. DeRochi, assisted by Mrs. Robert N. Cottone and Mrs. Norman J. Nicastro, is planning a large shrimp bowl, as well as fruit, wheels of cheese, canataloupe wrapped in prosciutto ham, liver pate and cold canapes. Over 100 different hors d'oeuvres from recipes collected over the years will be served.

Another feature of the Garden Party will be a Promise Tree. Each leaf on this live tree will be decorated with "Promises," each promise a pledge to perform a service for the purchaser, or provide something special, from a treasure to a trifle. Dance music will be provided by Art.

Proceeds from the Party will benefit the Stuart Capital Campaign. Elaine M. Ritchey, is chairman.

DRIVER IS INJURED
 In Route 206 Crash. A Lawrenceville resident was injured Thursday when her car suddenly crossed over the center line of Route 206 near Arretton Road and struck another car coming in the opposite direction. Frances D. Arecco, 31, of Lawrenceville Gardens, told Ptl. Mario Musso that she did not remember anything. Charged with failing to keep right, she was treated at Princeton Medical Center for head injuries. Her car collided with one driven by Rudolph J. Taub, 83, of Montclair, leaving 223 feet of skid marks. Both cars had to be towed away. Two trees on the property of James R. Brooks, 561 Route 206, were damaged in the 5:34 p.m. mishap.

3 CARS ENTERED
In Separate Thefts. Township police listed the break-in of three parked cars last week.
Stolen from the car of Dr. Raymond H. Schweibert, 48 Jefferson Road, while it was parked in the lot of the Princeton House, 905 Herrontown Road, were a $325 AM-FM stereo and a 23-channel CB radio valued at $130. The theft took place between 8 and 8:50 Thursday evening.

An AM-FM tape cassette and a CB radio with a combined value of $325 were stolen between 5:30 and 6:15 p.m. Friday from a car parked in the Rusty Scupper lot on Alexander Street.

Police said that the owner, Michael Coslet of Roselle, had locked the car but left the window on the driver's side open about an inch.

An auto cassette tape player ($110) and two speakers ($38) were stolen from a locked car early last week while it was parked in Lot 21 on the University Campus. Police identified the owner as Timothy Mist of River Road, Belle Mead.

When Mr. Mist returned, he noted that his car was still locked, police said.

In another Township theft a window screen was pushed in to enter a first-floor room at Lourie-Love Hall on campus.

Taken between 7:30 and 8:30 Sunday evening from the room of Leslie Bond, police said, were two stereo amplifiers valued at $325 and a $125 turntable. Ptl. Peter Savalli investigated.

ESCAPES POLICE CHASE
But Not For Long. Karl F. Eiker, 19, 233 Fisher Place, Penns Neck, has been charged with attempting to elude a police officer, following a chase through Princeton's streets that began Friday evening in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Presently free on $25 bail, Eiker is scheduled to appear in court on Wednesday.

Shortly after 9, Ptl. Anthony Gaylord observed two cars racing in the northern end of the shopping center lot near Bamberger's. Ptl. Gaylord pulled the one car over but the second, allegedly driven by Eiker, sped off. Ptl. Gaylord gave chase, the two cars speeding on Terhune Road, Broadmead, Meadowbrook and Braeburn.

Ptl. Gaylord radioed a description of the fleeing car which managed to elude him. It was later observed on Harrison Street by Ptl. John Hammond, who stopped Eiker near the bridge.

TRENTON MAN CHARGED
With Check Theft. Robert L. Coles, 47, of Trenton, a former employee of the Borough engineering department, has been charged by police with possession of a stolen check and larceny.

According to police, Coles walked into the Borough garage on Harrison Street Friday and stole an employee's check for $125.83. He then walked up to a drive-in branch of the Princeton Bank and Trust where he cashed the check. He was arrested around 1:30 by Det. Robert McAvenia after someone, police said, remembered seeing the suspect in the garage.

Annoying Caller. Gary D. Smith, 20, 2 Big Barn Road, Cranbury, was arrested Sunday by Det. Timothy Huizing of Borough police who caught him with 23 counts of making annoying phone calls.

Police report that most of Smith's alleged calls were to girls on the Princeton University campus. A tip led to his arrest, police said. Smith was released in his own recognizance after being issued a complaint summons.

Bruce Bernath, 23, of larceny by Borough Det. Trenton, was arrested last week outside a Blair Hall entry on the University campus by university prosecutors. He allegedly had in his possession a 10-speed Raleigh bicycle which was the property of a resident of Blair Hall.
Bernath was charged with same address.

Lacy was released in $25 bail in the custody of his sister. Sgt. Michael Kopliner investigated.
Charged with Shoplifting. Diana Chung, 19, of East Brunswick was arrested outside Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center Thursday by Ms. Constance Johnson, a Bamberger's security officer.

Police report that Miss Chung allegedly visited different departments in the store, placing $83 worth of merchandise in a plastic bag. She was later released, pending her appearance in Township Court.

NINE ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Nine Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court.

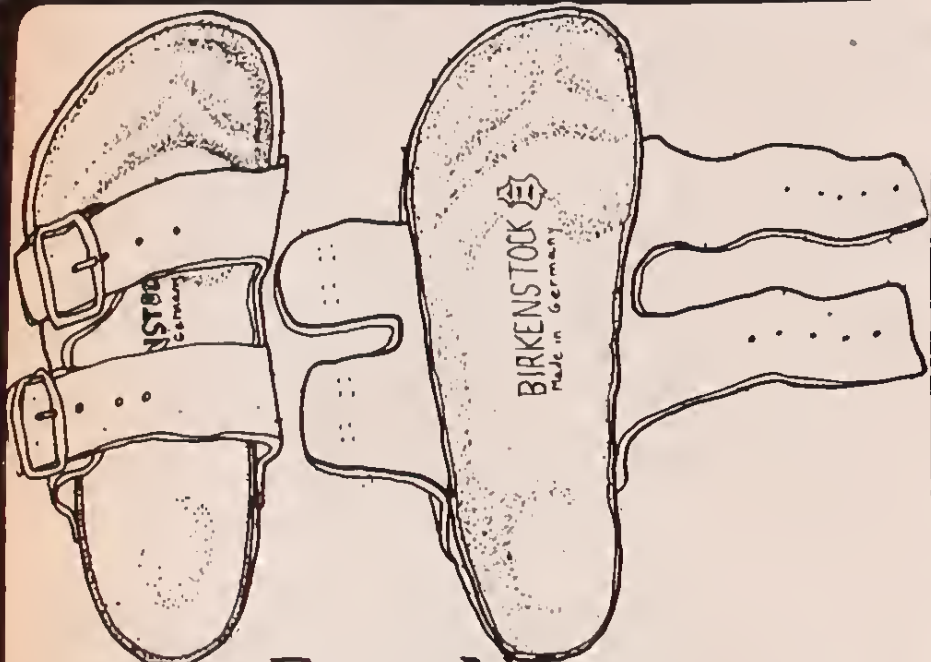

Paying speeding fines were Nibra Khalsa, 35 Hillside, and Bonnie J. Tulloss, 78 Dempsey Avenue, both $16, and Sydelle Ruderman, 36 Valley Road, $15. For careless driving, Gayle Chouinard, 70 Model Avenue, Hopewell, and Carlos A. Aramburu, 219 N. Main Street, Pennington, each paid $30, and Kirk F. Roth, 237 Hamilton Avenue, paid $25. Clara Preston, 808 Kingston Terrace, was fined $35 for failure to report an accident.

Others: Margaret Brennan, 329 Clay Street, $25, red light; and Yoshiko Noguchi, 127 Bayard Lane, $30, stop sign.

In Township Court last week, Judge Carchman fined Robert Reeves, E. Northgate Avenue, Cranbury, $30 for speeding. Marilyn R. Manning, 84 Model Avenue, Hopewell, paid $25 for a red light violation.

In criminal court, Adbeel Quinones of New York City appeared to answer six charges of trespassing on Princeton University property. He was fined $50 each on four and found not guilty on two of the charges.

Foot Notes

Birkenstock Footprints are a new type of shoe. They are the end result of years of development and research on proper foot support and natural foot and leg movement. Birkenstock Footprints are designed to improve posture, and circulation and therefore contribute to a healthier, more natural and more graceful walk. They give you a barefoot on the beach feeling even on the hardest surfaces.

Regular wearing of Birkenstock Footprints will not only keep feet looking and feeling great, but it will also remove the causes of many foot problems. Birkenstock Footprints were soundly designed by foot experts. Unlike most shoes which are designed only for eyes, Birkenstock Footprints are designed also for feet.

SKY DIVING IS TOPIC
Of YMCA Program. Those interested in Sport Parachuting, either watching or participating, are welcome to a special program next Wednesday at 8 at the YMCA. Doug Angel of Air Adventure will show a film he produced on sky diving. He will also demonstrate equipment and will answer questions on the growing sport.

In addition, the program will provide opportunity for enrollment in a two - session orientation program followed by an actual parachute jump. Mr. Angel stresses that, when done properly and under proper supervision, parachuting is a safe sport as well as an exciting one. Participants wishing to jump must be over 18 years of age, or, if between 16 and 18 years, have a written parental permission slip.

SENIORS TO SEE PLAY

At Papermill Playhouse. The Recreation Department is sponsoring a trip on Thursday, June 17, to the Papermill Playhouse to see Ann Miller in "Panama Hattie." The program is open to all residents 60 years of age and over. The cost per person is $3.75 and the bus will depart from the Harrison Street Fire House at 12:15 p.m.

For reservations and information, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480.

PARADE HERE SATURDAY

To Honor Volunteers. May 15-22 is National Volunteer Week and volunteer-steeped Princeton intends to honor its own with a parade on Saturday led by a famous government volunteer -- Abraham Lincoln.

The 2 p.m. parade will start at North Harrison and Hamilton and pass by a special review stand for senior citizens before winding its way through Borough streets on its way to Borough Hall.

Led by Mr. Lincoln on his motorcycle, the parade will consist of the Rider College Bicentennial Color Guard, the Princeton, West Windsor and Lawrence High school bands, horseback riders, fire engines, and volunteers -- in municipal government, in schools, in the fire department, the PHS student council, PTO officers, service organizations and many other groups.

Along the parade route, clowns will pass out candy to the children.

At Borough Hall, there will be addresses from Mayors Cawley and Bleiman; messages from Senators Case and Harrison; a reading on volunteerism by John Counts of the school system; music and poetry selections.

From 3 to 5, 1,100 invited guests will attend a reception at Morven, where Governor Byrne will honor Princeton's volunteers. Among the first will be Mrs. Byrne, a volunteer in the Princeton School system.

Kickoff by Abe. Abraham Lincoln helped launch events with an appearance Friday at Borough Hall. He mentioned that his motorcycle was a lot more comfortable than the nag he used to ride while campaigning in Illinois.

He wore a special VIP (Volunteers in Princeton) pin which will be presented to each of the guests at Morven.

VIPS ALL: In this case "Volunteers in Princeton" who will take part in a volunteer parade and ceremonies Saturday. At left is Mayor Robert Cawley, representing those who give their time in municipal service. Henry Landau, Princeton businessman, represents those who aid volunteerism with financial assistance, and at right is Willie Shields, Princeton Fire Co. No. 1, a representative of all those who give their time to the community. Abraham Lincoln (Princeton attorney Archibald S. Alexander Jr.) will lead the parade on his motorcycle.

Saying that volunteers were very important, he commented that it was well-known that he had contributed to the volunteer fire company in Springfield, Ill.

"I think it is appropriate to honor volunteers in Princeton, which is so well known for its volunteer work," he said. "I can't think of anything more important in this Bicentennial year than to honor volunteers -- one of the things that has set this country apart."

"Volunteers always meant a lot to me as Abraham Lincoln; they typify what is best in our country," Mr. Lincoln continued that the concept behind volunteerism of everybody being involved, young and old, members of all races, was consistent with his own concepts.

He also read a letter from President Ford, who wrote that he was very pleased to receive an invitation to attend the ceremonies at Princeton. Although he would like very much to come, the demands on his time prohibits it, the President said.

Councilman Martin Lombardo is chairman of the Volunteer Week committee. Other committee members are Henry Landau, Suzy Wyckoff, Pat Kidd, Susan Cowan, and Nelson Van Den Blink.

"THE MAN WHO...."

Carter Headquarters Opens. Carter-for-President backers opened their 20 Nassau headquarters last week (entrance on the Chambers Street side), with speeches and hopes for the future.

Delegate candidates State Senator Anne Martindell and Hunterdon County Democratic chairman Michael Gold spoke at the event, as did Howard Woodson, Norman Birnbaum and -- for his father -- Thomas Byrne, son of Governor Brendan T. Byrne.

The office staff consists of co-ordinators Mary Dungan and Peggy Wellington. The headquarters are open from 10 to 6 every day except Sunday. The telephone is 921-6570.

"GIFT TO OUR TOWN"

Dancers to Perform. The Princeton Youth Center's Ajile Dancers under the direction of Terrie Austin, will perform this Friday at 8 p.m. in the John Witherspoon Middle School auditorium. The $2 admission ($1 for students) will benefit the Center, whose Community House project is jointly sponsoring the event with the Center.

"Ajile" means "a gift to our town" in the Yoruba language, and the dancers' Friday presentation is called "Damili," or "Beautiful Vision." Ajile was founded by Mrs. Austin in 1971 while she was a student at Princeton University. There are at present four dancers in the group -- Marossa Dixon, Melba Lee, Yvonne Williams and Mrs. Austin. The group has performed throughout New Jersey on college campuses, in state prisons and in community playhouses.

The group's repertoire comprises ethnic, modern, jazz and spiritual dances, and dance themes are universal, with an Afro-American emphasis. Ajile is a creative movement dance group, employing improvisational freedom as well as choreography. Mrs. Austin has explained that the ideology of the group is based on the philosophy that art is a political, social and educational tool.

DINNER DANCE SET
By Fete Committee. A

dinner and dance will be held on Friday evening, June 11, at the Fete site on Washington Road Field. Co-chairmen Jean Cassen and Pat Hillier are preparing for a large crowd of party-goers to kick off the Fete in spirited style with cocktails at 6:30, buffet dinner at 8 and dancing from 7 to midnight.

Some 1,700 invitations designed by Pat Landmann have been mailed to all Fete workers, but the chairmen stress that the party is open to the public, provided reservations are made in advance. Call or write Lorraine McNair, 159 Washington Road, 452-2755. Tent capacity is limited; tickets are $25 per couple.

Peter Vielbig will serve a menu of char-broiled steak on a skewer, rice, Boston salad, baskets of French bread and rolls, and a star-spangled dessert. Dancing will be to the music of Sandy Maxwell's Band and the songs of Flo Handy.

Well known to fans of the Triangle Show for which he wrote music and lyrics from 1936 to 1939 Mr. Maxwell manages a dual career in advertising and music. He plays piano on weekends with a band in Chester and frequently leads his own band for local functions. His musicians include saxophone, trumpet and trombone players plus a drummer who in real life are respectively, a cartoonist, manufacturer's representative, parole officer, and a research scientist.

For continuous entertainment, this year's version of the Fun House, the Battle of Princeton, will be just outside where organizer Toby Laughlin will welcome all aboard. A surprise cast of characters arranged by Josie Hall will give Princeton's illustrious history a new twist.

CAMPOREE SCHEDULED

By Girl Scouts. The Princeton Neighborhood Girl Scout Camporee will be held at Cherris Camping Reservation, Canal Road, Rocky Hill, Friday through Sunday. Troops 138, 611, 614, 628, 635, 674, 691 and 698 will participate, each providing its own equipment. Campcraft workshops for fire building, knot tying, lashing, knifecraft, compass and map making, tent pitching and tie dying will be featured, and hikes will be taken to Rockingham, Griggstown and the Rocky Hill Cemetery.

On Saturday, all Princeton Brownies will be the guests of the older scouts and will be instructed in their activities. Mrs. Richard L. Gilbert is in charge of the overall program, and Mrs. John T. McGee will supervise the Brownie participation.

Farmhouse Named in Honor of the Late Mrs. Chauncey by ETS

A farmhouse whose rich and varied heritage spans the 200 years since the nation's birth was named the "Laurie House" Monday night at Educational Testing Service in honor of the late wife of former ETS president Henry Chauncey. Mrs. Chauncey died November 1975.

The farmhouse served as the Chaunceys' home between 1955 and 1970, when it became part of the Henry Chauncey Conference Center. For 15 years, Mrs. Chauncey made the simple, three-story frame structure the center of ETS entertaining and hospitality for the thousands of guests, including Eleanor Roosevelt.

"We name the house Laurie House with much love for Lucy Lawrence Chauncey, who did so much to create not its physical dimensions, but its human dimensions," ETS president William Turnbull said at the informal ceremony.

In connection with the event, ETS this week published a brochure chronicling the history of the farmhouse and property from 1769 to the present. Copies are free and can be obtained from the Princeton Chamber of Commerce, the Princeton Historical Society, or the Information Division at ETS.

The Chaunceys were only the most recent in a long line of New Jersey families who made this house their home.

Earliest Record 1769. In fact, the history of the farmhouse and property on which now stands the ETS Princeton Office predates America's founding. The earliest official record of the property is dated June 17, 1769, marking the sale of John Huff's land in Maidenhead Township (now Lawrence) to his son, Abel.

Next, the property was handed down to Abel Huff's son, Francis, who held it for 46 years. Although there is no historical proof, Francis is thought to be the man who erected the first building on the property.

Retired Princeton architect M.I. Posey, invited to inspect the farmhouse recently at the request of ETS assistant archivist Kathy Denby, said the oldest sections of the house were probably built between 1800 and 1810.

Between 1839 and 1866, the "said land and premises" changed owners five times before passing into the hands of John S. Van Kirk, for the sum of $6,767 and 200 shares of oil company stock.

A prosperous farmer for the 61 years he held the property, Van Kirk was a lifelong Democrat, an ardent admirer of Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson, both Princetonians at one time, and active in local politics. He moved into the farmhouse in the spring of 1866 with his bride, Sally Hart, and immediately began to rebuild it into a rambling Victorian home for a family that eventually numbered nine children.

But the Van Kirk era ended as abruptly as it had begun, when John died at age 89 in 1927. The following spring, his heirs sold the farm to Thomas A. Dignan, senior member of the Stoney Brook Hunt Club, who promptly turned it into the club's headquarters.

Caretaker's Home. For seven years hence it became the home of John and Grace Harris. As huntsman and caretaker of the club premises, Harris stocked it with more than 100 hunting dogs and was charged with laying the hunt for members. He did this by dragging a rabbit's carcass stuffed with fox litter along the edges of fields, under fences, across streams and through neighboring farms. The next day, club members mounted on horseback followed the hounds after the trail.

At the end of the hunt, Mrs. Harris would be waiting in her car with a slab of meat for the dogs. But in a real hunt, the carcass of the fox would be thrown to the hounds after the mask (head) had been awarded to the first lady and the brush (tail) to the first gentleman.

Harris was succeeded in 1934 by diminutive sportsman Thomas Randolph (Jock) Spinks, an ace rider from Virginia. He competed in horse shows from Maine to Florida against the best showmen in the world, and by the time he was 25 had won over 1,000 awards for performances in such places as Madison Square Garden, Devon, and Harrisburg.

Schluter Home. The hunt club days were short-lived, though, as the cost of hunting grew too expensive to bear during the Depression. In 1939 the farm was sold to businessman-farmer Frederick Schluter. Schluter and his wife, Charlotte, named the farm "Active Acres" in honor of their four sons, one of whom became a Mercer County assemblyman in the state legislature.

In 1954, ETS president Henry Chauncey, who had been looking for a place where ETS might relocate from its cramped downtown Princeton offices, "discovered" the Schluter farm while hiking with his wife, Laurie. Negotiations followed, and ETS soon owned the entire property and the Chaunceys moved into the farmhouse with their infant, the first of four daughters.

For the next decade and a half, the farmhouse under Mrs. Chauncey was the symbol of ETS hospitality and graciousness. Under the Cultural Exchange Agreement between the U.S. and the Soviet Union, the first Russian delegation to study American education visited ETS and dined in the house, getting a first-hand look at early Americana.

The farmhouse's history was uncovered by Princeton Township resident Kathy Denby, who spent almost a year running down land plat records at the Mercer County Courthouse and interviewing scores of area residents who might bring their memories to bear on the subject. She had help from co-worker Elizabeth Kalff, also of Princeton, the housekeeper at the Conference Center who often was asked by guests about the farmhouse's origins.

SOFTBALL FOR WOMEN
Play to Start Soon. The Princeton Recreation Department will sponsor a softball program for women 16 and over that will include the formation of a league and a free-play instructional program.

The League will run eight weeks through July with an organizational meeting scheduled for Tuesday evening. Those wishing to participate should call the recreation office at 921-9480. Those with a knowledge of the game are also being sought to serve as officials at the games which will be played Tuesday and Thursday evenings. If interested, call the recreation office.

The instructional program for women interested in playing at a non-competitive level will begin on Wednesday at 6:30 at Grover Park Field behind the Princeton Shopping Center. It will be held once a week for eight weeks.

Bats and balls will be provided but players should bring their own gloves, if possible. To register, call the recreation office.

TOURNAMENTS SET

By Indoor Center. Beginning Monday, the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center on Washington Road will sponsor its annual spring tournaments, starting with the men's and women's singles and doubles events.

Center members wishing to participate should sign up by Sunday. Further information is available from the Center at 924-0015.

The event, held in a huge tent, will feature a fashion show by Bonwit Teller and a quiche lorraine luncheon by Princeton Caterers. Bonnie Brae is a residential and special education for troubled young people.

Less Than a Third Replying to Survey Think Income Tax Will Bring Lower Property Taxes

New Jerseyans are evenly divided on the income tax package recently passed by the State Assembly, according to the latest New Jersey Poll. This statewide survey, conducted by the Eagleton

Institute of Politics of Rutgers University found that 44 percent approved of the Assembly action, 44 percent disapproved, and 12 percent were unsure.

Many were unaware that the Assembly had passed the tax legislation, with 37 percent saying they knew of the Assembly's action and 63 percent saying they had not known about it.

The package passed by the Assembly in March provided for a state income tax, reductions in local property tax, and limitations on state and local spending but does not provide any funds to restore programs and services which were cut in Governor Byrne's proposed state budget for the fiscal year 1976-77. On an income tax generally, just 35 percent of the state's voters favored a tax that would serve only to restore service and program cuts in the budget, with 60 percent opposing such a plan. By a 52-38 percent margin, New Jerseyans also opposed a plan that would produce only property tax relief without restoration of service and program reductions.

An income tax package that would provide for both property tax relief and the full funding of state services and programs finds more favor with New Jerseyans. Such a plan is favored by an almost two-to-one margin of 62-33 percent.

However, people are still skeptical that any income tax package passed by the Legislature will in fact result in property tax relief. Only 29 percent believe that this will happen, while 56 percent believe that their property taxes will not be reduced. Indeed, 77 percent believe that their total state tax bill will increase if an income tax is imposed, and only 16 percent believe that their tax burden will be decreased.

Alan Rosenthal, Director of the Eagleton Institute noted that, "as in the past, the public seems to want both restoration of the budget cuts and property tax relief. People are willing to see the tax system restructured to accomplish these goals, but they are reluctant to pay any more taxes to do it."

Poll officials also pointed out that the action the Assembly has taken in passing the income tax package does not divide the electorate along partisan lines. Democrats, Republicans and Independents are equally divided for and against the tax.

Packer Collegiate Institute and with honors from Vassar College. She received a Ph.D. in public policy from the Florence Heller School of Brandeis University, where she held a fellowship for dissertation research from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Her husband attended Mercersburg Academy and graduated cum laude from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and last year from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He is assistant to the president of Knomark, Inc., a Papercraft corporation in New York.

It's New to Us

In addition to the traditional patterns worked in a crib size of pastels, we saw some delightful appliqued quilts. There is a red Fisher Boy complete with a bandana in his back pocket set on a blue background, a green apple tree with white doves, and a rocking horse, $35 and $40.

Other ages will appreciate Cabin Creek's work also. For Dad, there is a vest of wool and corduroy patches and a wide choice of ties; for the teens there are denim shirts and t-shirts appliqued with traditional patchwork patterns, or shoulder bags—again made of many patches; while mom should like the crazy patch reversible wrap skirts that come short or long—warm enough for three seasons and each has an individual look, $5 to $45.

There are household items too and particularly handsome here are the pillows with traditional patchwork patterns set on solid backgrounds. The Double Wedding Ring, Lone Star, Grandmother's Garden and others are particularly effective when one repeat is isolated in this way. The color range is total, and it is an inexpensive way to preserve and enjoy this quilting heritage. Priced from $10 to $22, they come with or without the pillow form in case you have an old pillow that needs some refurbishing.

Completing the picture are sun visors, heavy potholders (hard to find and so essential), patchwork placemats, toys and wooden frames from other cooperatives and much much more.

Located upstairs at 195 Nassau Street, Cabin Creek Quilts is easy to find because the windows are filled with pillows and on a nice day you'll even see a quilt hanging out—just look up. The hours are 10 to 5, Tuesday through Saturday.

MAILBOX

Action on Sameric Asked.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Enclosed is a copy of a letter which I have sent to the Princeton Township Committee concerning the current movie controversy.
IRENE M. LYNCH
(Mrs. Joseph Lynch)
166 Jefferson Road

I urge you to take whatever action is open to you to require that the Sameric theater chain reconsider the policy of blatant disregard for the recreational needs of Princeton residents which is shown by raising prices and scheduling the same movies for months at a time.

Since the Sameric chain took over the only two movie theaters in town, Princeton has lost a recreational resource which had served people of all ages, educational backgrounds and income levels. No alternate form of entertainment has the universal appeal of the movies.

Princeton has also lost the cultural advantage of having available the best current foreign films and a variety of new American ones. It is ironic that as Film receives more recognition as a major art form, fewer and fewer contemporary works are being shown in this university community. Princeton's status as a cultural center in New Jersey must surely begin to suffer.

It is a further irony that, in order to see these films, we must get into our cars and drive to Hightstown, Trenton, New Brunswick and Route 1 at the same time as residents of those areas drive to our theaters. Clearly Princeton, the town we like to think is unique, is an interchangeable piece of property on the Sameric Monopoly board.

Princeton has been different because its institutions have served human needs: of the mind, the spirit, and the enjoyment of life. When our residents become moveable counters in the profits game, Princeton will soon be just another town in mass America.

It is incumbent that the Township Committee act now to prevent further erosion of the quality of life in Princeton.

Story of a Shopping Trip.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Memories of the La Crepe in our New York neighborhood lured us to the new mall last week and of course we had a look about and of course we spotted some bargains we just had to take away with us.

If that's the future, I take vanilla. In one store, we assembled a sack of vitamins and I wrote a check. Then I was told that I would have to be fingerprinted. I look pretty respectable and was amply supplied with identification; it didn't matter. Company rules.

When my son bought some records, I wrote another check, having been assured that there was no inking pad at this shop. The clerk did the usual transcribing of license number on check, then my American Express number and the one from my U-Store card.

Then she called a "confirming agency". The cash register line grew longer and longer and the astonishment level higher and higher as she explained repeatedly to whoever was empowered to confirm or disallow this transaction that Princeton, "P-R-I-N-C-E-T-O-N," was a town in New Jersey, a well known university, etc., etc.

I have not returned to the mall. I don't plan to. God bless you, Princeton merchants.

Small is indeed beautiful.
ANN MEDLOCK

School Board is Unamusing.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
What's the difference between the Mad Hatter's Tea Party and the Princeton Regional School Board? Well, for one thing, $8 million per year and one of the highest costs per pupil in the State.

Maybe there's another difference: "Lewis Carroll's" yarn has delighted several generations of readers; the Princeton Regional School Board delights no one, except, perhaps, the educational unions.

Princeton High School students have been achieving English composition and statesmanship, the School mathematics. To safeguard this democratizing trend, the School Board has just hired still this School Board gave tenure to a "consultant."—he's a for-principal whose scholarly expertise remains a guarded secret. Law-and-order prevails in the building by plugging up "leaks" to the press and the public.

Our John Witherspoon elementary school has been competing successfully over the years with permissively-run animals shelters. Children have learned compassion by yielding to knife-point hold-ups and have acquired disdain for snobbish conformity by insulation from basic academic skills.

Now the School Board has appointed a new principal. His credentials include a degree from the Springfield College of Physical Education, experience in guerrilla warfare and expertise in sex education. Just what Princeton "kids" need!

To top these masterly strokes of educational statesmanship, the School Board has just hired still another executive. He's called a "consultant."—he's a for-principal whose scholarly expertise remains a guarded secret. Law-and-order prevails in the building by plugging up "leaks" to the press and the public.

His mandate is to tell us what, if anything, is awry in Princeton Regional Schools. Our dedicated Superintendent had threatened to "take appropriate action" if a consultant were hired; but so far he has steadfastly stuck to his job despite repeated requests to resign.

Now we learn that the child of a School Board member who was employed last summer by the School Board for custodial work is currently employed to run the tape recorder during School Board meetings. By accident, during a recent School Board jolly-up the tape recorder was shut off at the very moment when Pa ought to have shut up. (Now why didn't former President Nixon think of hiring Julie to run his recorder?)

Looked at with proper perspective, Princeton School Board proceedings are just one big barrel of fun. Free, too, if you disregard the $8 million.

You have to bear in mind that our School Board doesn't concern itself with trivia like educating young human beings. Its sole purpose is to safeguard tenured jobs, 50-cent prescriptions, short hours, high pay and lots of paid leave. Bear these principles in mind, stir in a dash of ipecac, sit back and enjoy!

The merry month of May was made especially merry Sunday, May 2, thanks to all those who came, shared and joined in the Art People Picnic. Artists and craftsmen; musicians, singers and dancers; those good people in Nassau and Township halls who helped make it all possible. And a breathless thanks to those who blew up balloons. Thank you, sun. Thank you, thank you—all of you.

OBITUARIES

Leo D. Kind, 88, of Trenton, a former prominent jeweler in Trenton and Princeton, died May 5 in Morris Hall Health and Rehabilitation Center. Mr. Kind was the founder and president of Reid's Jewelers which he operated on East State Street in downtown Trenton for many years. Later he was chairman of the board of LaVake Jewelers, owned by his son, Samuel M. Kind of Yardley, Pa. Born in Paterson, he lived in the Trenton area since 1922. He was a lifelong member and former board member of Har Sinai Temple in Trenton and was one of the founders of the Greenacres Country Club. A volunteer aide at St. Francis Medical Center in Trenton for many years, he was a member of the National Board of Retail Jewelers.

In addition to his son, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Claire Sugarman Kind; another son, Ira J. Kind of Trenton; and five grandchildren.

The service was held at a Trenton funeral home, Rabbi Bernard Perelmutter and Cantor Marshall M. Glatzer of Har Sinai Temple officiating. Entombment was in the family mausoleum in B'nai Jeshurun Cemetery, Hillside.

Mrs. Rena P. Clayton, 75, of 130 Mercer Street, died May 4 in the Lawrenceville Nursing Home. Born in Bristol, she lived in Princeton more than 60 years.

She is survived by her husband, Walter S. Clayton; a son, Walter S. Clayton Jr. of Cordoba, Argentina; two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Servis of Princeton and Mrs. Ann C. Honore of West Windsor Township; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

A private graveside service was held in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

Otto T. Young, Jr. 52, of 17 Montgomery Avenue, Rocky Hill, a past chief of the Rocky Hill Hook and Ladder Company, died May 4. He was stricken with an apparent heart attack while fishing near his home.

A lifelong Rocky Hill resident, Mr. Young was employed as a compliance officer in connection with the Occupational Safety and Health Act at the General Service Administration office in Belle Mead. He also worked part time for Marsh and Company, druggists, in Montgomery Township.

Mr. Young was a former scoutmaster in Rocky Hill and a former board member of Princeton Chapter 91 of the Order of Rainbow Girls. He was a member of the Exempt Fireman's Association, the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill, Masonic Lodge 38 of Princeton, the New Jersey Section of the American Industrial Hygiene Association and a charter member of the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Parke Young; three daughters, Mrs. Carolyn Embrey of Belle Mead, Mrs. Deborah Cook of Rocky Hill and Mrs. Beverly Cramer of Enid, Okla.; his mother, Mrs. Otto T. Young Sr. of Rocky Hill; two brothers, Douglas of Rocky Hill and Harry of Trenton, and three grandchildren.

The service was held in the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill, the Rev. Frank J. Bahr officiating. Burial was in Rocky Hill Cemetery.

Hydia H. Stewart, 76, of 110 Witherspoon Street, died May 5 in the Merwick Unit of the Princeton Medical Center. He was a retired employee of the Nassau Tavern.

Mr. Stewart was a member and a deacon of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church and a member of its senior choir. He was also an honorary member of the Lions Club.

Surviving are a son, William Stewart of Lawrenceville; two stepsons, Leon Redding of Trenton and Luther Redding of Princeton; a brother, William F. Stewart Jr. of Still Pond, Md., and 10 grandchildren.

The service was held at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, former pastor, and the Rev. Floyd Rhodes, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Stephen Mistyhn, 58, of Dorchester Drive, East Windsor, died May 5 in Princeton Medical Center. Mr. Mistyhn was employed in the maintenance department of the Dow Jones Company on Route 1.

Born in Wilkes Barre, he lived in East Brunswick for 18 years before moving to East Windsor five years ago. He was a member of the International Association of Publisher's Employees, New York City.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Stella Kasabucki Mistyhn; a son, Walter S. Mistyhn, and a daughter, Mrs. Michael Newman, both of Jackson; his mother, Mrs. Anna Plaksa of Princeton; two brothers, Joseph of South Brunswick Township and Michael of Princeton; three sisters, Mrs. Peter Duras of Princeton, Mrs. John Dahms of Somerville and Mrs. Andrew Kochis Jr. of Belle Mead, and four grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was held in St. Anthony's Church, Hightstown. Burial was in Holy Cross Burial Park in South Brunswick.

Joseph A. Rieszer Sr., 67, of Windsor Castle Apartments, East Windsor, died May 8 in Princeton Medical Center.

Princetonian New Owner of Princeton Gourmet

Don Warnock of Pretty Brook Road became the new owner of Princeton Gourmet as of May 3. Located in an 18th century building on the corner of Nassau and Harrison Streets, Princeton Gourmet has been selling quality merchandise for the dining room and kitchen for the past 23 years at the same address.

By coincidence, Mr. Warnock has had 23 years' experience in merchandising housewares as a buyer in the home furnishing departments of Lord & Taylor and B. Altman in New York City and most recently as a vice-president for a national wholesale organization based in New York. He has lived in Princeton for 17 of those years and, conscious that Princeton consumers are an intelligent, discerning group of people, his primary aim for his new venture is to concentrate on the how of selling his lines rather than making drastic changes in what he has to offer.

Mr. Warnock wants to make the store look like three department store locations, for top of table, kitchen ware and delicacies. "Hopefully," he says, "the customer won't have to go to New York to buy the things we will have here." During August he plans to renovate the entire selling area with fresh paint, shelving and lighting and to eliminate clutter by opening the floor space.

He plans to keep a balance between contemporary and traditional lines and to offer the same kind of services in mailing, gift wrapping, charges and bridal registry offered previously. He wants to have an empty table on which to demonstrate how china, flatware, stemware and table mats look together, in addition to displaying them separately.

At Christmas-time, he plans to have some "men only" nights in which men, whose memory of just what it was that she said she wanted often fails, may choose from items their wives have already recorded in a "Wish Book." Mr. Warnock intends to be a very much in evidence owner-manager, giving customers the feeling they can call up to place orders and be satisfied with the results. He also will use his considerable expertise in the market to buy the best, not necessarily the most expensive, in basic good design.

the course was held one night a week from 7 to 9 for one month. The twenty-three women who signed up didn't emerge as mechanics but they learned what to do when their car stalls, when the engine floods or the battery goes dead.

Mr. Shull also explained how the brakes and other systems of a car operate, how to jump a battery and the difference between a carburetor and generator. Not only did the women learn where the dip stick was but they learned how to react to the occasional unscrupulous operator who presses for unneeded repair work.

Attending the W.O.W. session were Sherry Stinnett, Sallie Griffin, Jean Lewis, Lulu Fresco, Rosalie Fresco, Janet, Polly and Lydia Mitchell, Renee Gruber, Lucy G. McVicker, Martha B. Hannon, Phyllis Spiegel, Joyce Kuckuck, Sabine A. Greebil, H. Lynn Whitney, Nancy E. He retired in 1972 from his position as Director, Technology, for the Corporation, and is now an independent consultant.

JOINS NATIONAL FIRM
In Real Estate. Ken Osthheim of Carnegie Realty, Inc. has announced that his firm has joined the national organization of Century 21 Real Estate and will henceforth be known as Century 21 Carnegie Realty. "National but Neighborly" is the slogan for Century 21, which has 2300 affiliates from coast to coast, each of which are independently owned. According to Mr. Osthheim, Carnegie joined Century 21 because of its growth and the scope of its coverage, as well for the fine cooperation that exists between realtor-members. Such an organization permits advertising on a scale not available to individual office operations. Television spots on New York TV are seen by adult viewers over 720 million times annually, and billboards, combined newspaper ads and radio advertising are also available.

Century 21 has just announced the opening of Century 21 International Relocation Company, which, in addition to the present referral program, is designed to assist the buyer or the seller, or both ends of the move, when relocation is necessary. Century 21 also provides extensive courses of professional instruction to its realtors and sales associates, emphasizing all phases of real estate service from appraisal, finance and property management to servicing the seller and satisfying the buyer.

The management training courses have the advantage of the joint experience of all Century 21 offices. In 1975 Century 21 affiliates sold over five and one-half billion dollars of real estate. It is estimated that there are over 50,000 properties listed for sale by Century 21 at this time and that a sale closes every three minutes each business day.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE
For Realtors. Earl J. Sneddon, executive vice-president of Weidel Real Estate, attended an All-Points Relocation Service conference in Saddle Brook. Assisting corporate transferees was the principal theme of the two-day meeting. Weidel Real Estate is the Mercer County and Hunterdon County representative of All-Points, whose 500-member companies cooperate to assist transferring families with their relocation needs.

Mr. Rieser retired in 1975 as a sergeant with the University police force and before that was a sergeant in the Hopewell Borough police department.

Born in Trenton, he lived in this area most of his life. At the time of his death, Mr. Rieser was a school crossing guard with the Princeton Township police and was also affiliated with the Princeton Armored Services. He was a member of the American Federation of Police and the Cranbury Golf Club.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Florence M. Edinger Rieser; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Ann Weeks of Plainsboro and Mrs. Kathleen Hoff of Fallsington; three sons, Joseph A. of Sarasota, Fla., John F. of Yardville and William, at home; his father, Joseph Rieser of Trenton; a brother, Frank Rieser of Somers Point; three sisters, Mrs. Madeline Neise and Mrs. Anna Jones, both of Trenton, and Mrs. Marion Becker of Levittown and 11 grandchildren.

The service was held in a Trenton funeral home, with burial in Greenwood Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the East Windsor Rescue Squad.

William J. Quigley, 65, of 212 Pennington Road, died May 7 in Princeton Medical Center. Born in Riverton, he lived in Hopewell most of his life.

Mr. Quigley worked at the New Jersey Neuropsychiatric Institute as a plumber and steamfitter, and was formerly a chauffeur at St. Michael's Home in Hopewell. He served 11 years in the Army and was a veteran of World War II and a member of Hopewell American Legion Post 339.

He is survived by his wife, Victoria M. Quigley; a son, William A. at home; and a brother, Alexander, of Hopewell.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Alphonsus's Church. Burial was in Highland Cemetery.

FUND DRIVE BEGINS

For Twin W Squad. The Twin W First Aid Squad, Inc. of West Windsor Township will conduct its annual fund drive during the month of May. This year the Twin W is holding a mail fund drive instead of a door-to-door solicitation, and is relying on the generosity of friends and neighbors to respond to this mailed request with the same enthusiasm shown in the past.

During the year 1975 the First Aid Squad answered 444 first aid calls and volunteers gave 2,398 hours of their time in first aid services to their community. Not included in this total are the thousands of hours spent in training, drills, meetings, ambulance checking and maintenance and the other activities necessary to provide first aid service to West Windsor Township.

Rev. Roger Cramer

News Of The CHURCHES

NEW MINISTER NAMED

At Trinity Church. The Rev. Dr. Roger W. Cramer was welcomed Sunday as a new associate rector of Trinity Church. He will serve in the regular ministry of the Church and particularly in the area of development and administration of a parish-wide Christian Education program.

Dr. Cramer is a graduate of Ohio State University and received his master of theology degree and his doctor of ministry from the University of Chicago Divinity School. He brings a wide range of experience from both

Dean Gordon's Sermon on Sunday Based On One of Witherspoon's 200 Years Ago

Dean Ernest Gordon will give a sermon Sunday at 11 in the University Chapel based on one preached by John Witherspoon on May 17, 1776.

The occasion was a "Day of Fasting and Solemn Humiliation" proclaimed by the Continental Congress at a time when the colonists were deeply divided over the issue of separating from England. The place was the Presbyterian Church, in which early University presidents assumed the pulpit in addition to their college duties.

As did Witherspoon, Dean Gordon will base his sermon, entitled "Good Out of Apparent Evil," on the 10th stanza of Psalm 76: "Surely the wrath of man shall praise thee: the remainder of Wrath shall thou restrain." In considering the question of how can anything good come out of revolution, Witherspoon preached that God has a purpose even in something so drastic as war and that out of anger and wrath would come benefits for the country.

Also during this service, John Witherspoon's coat of arms, a scarlet shield with a gold cross, will be dedicated. The shield will soon be placed over the President's stall in the Chapel Choir.

the Methodist and Episcopal Church.

For four years he participated in the Columbia, Md., cooperative ministry, an ecumenical team involving both Protestants and Roman Catholics. He shared in the establishment of a new Episcopal congregation in 1972 and for three years headed the educational program of Queen Caroline Parish, Columbia. He has been a worker-priest and, as a potter, brings to the staff of Trinity Church a background of unusual creativity.

PROJECT AIDS FUND

For Damaged Church Roof. The March 21st tornado damage to the roof of the 130 year old First United Methodist Church of Pennington stimulated an interesting project as well as a fund-raising effort for a new roof.

Scarcely had the slates hit the ground before a church member had the idea of silk screening a picture of the church on the damaged slates. The idea of such a memento appealed to other members, and the administrative board authorized Mona Morgan and Lesley Roesch to execute the plan which became known as "Operation Slate."

First some of the church women and their children collected slates, rescuing them from the workmen who had already begun temporary repairs, and scrubbed and stored them. With the help of the Pennington School art teacher, Margaret Kersey, and Ron Balerno, a Trenton

State college student teacher at the school, an appropriate drawing of the church was made and a silk screen prepared. Under Mr. Balerno's instruction, the women learned to transfer the church pictures to the slates.

The silk screen reproductions in a limited edition of 225 are now available for sale at $10. Each has a unique shape, each has been numbered and is registered in the buyer's name, and over 80 have already been sold. For information call Mona Morgan, 466-3415.

BULLETINS

The women of the First Baptist Church, Avalon and John Streets, will hold their Annual Womens' Day Service Sunday at 11. The Rev. Julia B. Swindell, assistant pastor of Zion Temple Church, Richmond Hill, N.Y., will speak on "Finding God Through Christian Women." Accompanying the Rev. Mrs. Swindell will be Melvin C. Walker, ambassador of gospel music.

Rev. Edward Smith is pastor; Mrs. Alice S. Hyde is chairman.

The Gospel Ensemble of Princeton University will present its Annual Spring Concert Sunday at 2:30 in McCarter Theatre. Also performing will be the Christian Center Community Choir of Newark and the Gospel Essence of Princeton. There will be no admission charge, but all donations will be gladly accepted.

The Young Jewish Singles will meet Sunday at 8 in the Bet Am building of the Jewish Center at 457 Nassau Street. The meeting will focus on the topic "Is Keeping Kosher Relevant in Today's World?" Young people ages 21-35 are invited to come exchange ideas and enjoy a social period afterward.

Refreshments will be served. Admission is $2.

The leading cause of blindness in the United States is glaucoma. There are over 800,000 men and women in this country who are slowly losing their sight because of this disease. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness points out that any one who needs a frequent change of glasses with little or no improvement in vision, who fails to adjust to darkened areas, who has loss of side vision or blurred vision, and who sees colored rings around lights, should contact his physician at once.

A VERY SPECIAL NEW LISTING

Writing the ad for this special property has proven most difficult - How to do it justice?

The fine four bedroom Colonial with center hall, charming living room, sunny dining room, family room with raised hearth, modern kitchen with bow window, powder room, laundry - mudroom, full basement with office or dark room, full attic and oversized two-car garage, all in immaculate condition is a snap to tell you about BUT the GARDEN there's the difficulty. Does one start with the complete privacy of stockade fencing, or with the lovely terrace shaded by a magnificent European Beech tree (one of two such) or the way the garden is laid out, half formal and half left in a natural state with winding paths or does one just tell about the Franklinia (probably the tallest in No. America) The Kolkwetzae, the Incense Cedar, Japanese Dogwood Azalaeas, Rhododendron, exotic bulbs, etc., etc? How does one describe this horticulturists miniature dream garden? This writer cannot.

memo to homeowners

Marketing Your Property Effectively

When you list your property "exclusively" with a real estate firm there are many jobs that must be done to market your property effectively. Here is a list of what you should expect.

1. An accurate analysis of current market value of your property, and the actual sale prices of comparables.
2. An assembling of all pertinent data on a presentable, readable form: heat cost, taxes, legal description, etc.
3. A Xeroxing and dissemination of that sheet to all other brokers in the area through the multiple listing systems.
4. A posting of the "For Sale" sign -- this draws as many clients as advertising does.
5. Contact of all your neighbors to see if a close friend would be interested.
6. An attractive advertising format in the newspapers to attract clients to your home.
7. A Open House for all brokerage firms to inspect your property; this will help agents weed out disinterested parties.
8. Appointments made through your broker at times convenient for you to show your home.
9. Negotiations (presentations of offers) through your broker immediately upon receipt of same, and with his candid, expert advice.
10. Renewal of the listing two weeks prior to expiration if not sold during the original listing period, and an adequate explanation of why it has not yet sold.

* For all of these jobs to be done well, your broker needs and relies on an "exclusive contract." It is the backbone of the real estate business, and simply means the broker will be paid for his services if he is successful in selling your property.

Firestone

REAL ESTATE 609-924-2222
173 Nassau Street, Princeton

Near Stony Brook in Princeton's Western Section

Situated on a beautiful hillside overlooking Stony Brook - a lovely colonial multi-level with many fine features. Inside there's a spacious light living room with raised hearth fireplace for entertaining on a grand scale, a cheerful dining room, and a delightful eat-in kitchen with pine cabinets in the colonial tradition. Just a few steps away, a rustic knotty pine family room and a downstairs powder room and laundry room. Upstairs there are three cheerful and roomy bedrooms and one and a half baths. Tastefully decorated throughout, and overlooking natural open space with Stony Brook close at hand for a peaceful woodland walk! $93,000

West Windsor Colonial in the Woods Near Princeton

"New to the market, this charming Colonial in the West Windsor Woods has much to offer; it is within walking distance of schools, a commuter's delight for Philadelphia or New York, a well-planned home in the trees convenient to Princeton." Slate entry foyer, formal living room and dining room, family room with a warm log-burning fireplace, well-planned eat-in kitchen with laundry nearby, and a pleasant patio in the rear for year-round entertaining. Upstairs are four comfortable bedrooms and two full baths. Downstairs is a full dry basement for recreation and spare-time hobbies, neat as a pin and tastefully decorated throughout. Available now through Firestone Real Estate for $75,000

Contemporary Rancher Near Rocky Hill

This tastefully designed Montgomery rancher is set amid magnificent plantings all around that add to its privacy and charm. From the living room with fireplace to the dining room and master suite with cathedral ceiling, there is a definite contemporary flair for openness and simplicity. There is also a neat flagstone-floored study tucked away at one end of the house, and a second and third bedroom at the other end. The view across field and mountain from the large flagstone patio in the rear of this home is reason enough to buy, but come see for yourself a different kind of contemporary ranch unlike any you've seen. Available now through Firestone Real Estate at $62,500

Griggstown Cottage in the Forest

Wake up this summer in this neat little house in Griggstown and watch the sun filter through the trees and the squirrels chase each other hither and yon. Large sunny kitchen, breakfast room, pantry, living room and den or third bedroom. Upstairs are two more comfortable bedrooms, and outside, a one-car garage and workroom. "New to the market, so call!" $46,500

OPEN HOUSE: Sunday, May 16, 1-3 p.m. House on Forest Avenue. Look for sign on Bunker Hill Road.

Overlooking the 18th Fairway

This magnificent colonial multi-level overlooks the 18th fairway of a luxurious golf course that has great recreational facilities for the entire family. Inside, there's a formal flagstone foyer, generous living room with fireplace, a separate dining room with chair rail, a family room with wet bar, and a spacious eat-in kitchen with laundry room nearby. Upstairs are four comfortable bedrooms and two full baths. Come out to the countryside near the golf course and enjoy an evening breeze on the private brick patio with gold fish pond. You'll be glad you came to see this one, and you may decide to stay. Available through Firestone Real Estate at $89,500

Firestone's Newest Listing in Downtown Princeton

This marvelous older two-story colonial on a tree-shaded street offers the spacious floor plan and in-town convenience you've been waiting for...featuring a gracious entry foyer, a large living room with fireplace, a separate dining room, a warm eat-in kitchen with pantry and a spacious light sun porch to enjoy the summer evenings. Upstairs are four comfortable bedrooms, family bath, and a great big attic space with dormers that has all kinds of possibilities. Solid construction throughout, with a slate roof, plaster walls, thicker joists, etc. Here today, and probably gone tomorrow, so call us today. $72,000

Looking for a New Home Near Princeton?

Parkside enjoyment with convenience is the keynote of our newest listing in nearby West Windsor Township. This beautifully-kept colonial offers a spacious front-to-back living room, a low-keep ceramic tile foyer, a separate formal dining room, a generous family room with fireplace and a convenient, modern eat-in kitchen with washer-dryer facilities nearby. There are four comfortable upstairs bedrooms including a spacious master suite with a huge walk-in closet and master bath. Convenient to commuting on the Penn Central, and to continuing education and fantastic recreational facilities at Mercer County Community College. Beautifully landscaped, newly painted, and completely fenced, in a very pleasant neighborhood and super location. $67,500

In a Mountain Greenery, Where God Paints the Scenery...

High above the rushing stream and away off on its own is this exceptional contemporary mountain home in a unique setting with a view of all of Bedens Brook Valley. Spacious living room with picture window and a log burning fireplace, formal dining room, eat-in kitchen with custom crafted oak cabinets, two comfortable bedrooms and two full baths (one bedroom with its own outside entrance.) Downstairs, but still on ground level, is a large recreation room, a second kitchen (or third bedroom) and a half bath. There's room for expansion in the two car garage area for activities, or more bedrooms if desired. An outstanding contemporary with a breath-taking view. Now offered through Firestone at $61,500.

Henderson, Of Course

ROSEDALE ROAD, just across the Princeton line...extraordinary convenience and privacy....on two full acres, recently restored and redecorated! A charming colonial combining the best features of older construction with modern design: slate roof, plaster walls, French doors, wainscoting, gracious flagstone porch, attractive courtyard PLUS central air conditioning, modern kitchen, underground wiring, humidifiers. Furthermore, the best of all, this four bedroom house has a separate garage and four-room rentable apartment with its own utilities, making it the best investment on today's market $125,000

FOR A VERY SPECIAL PROFESSIONAL!

We have a unique offering on 3 acres near Lawrenceville, with professional zoning. A really palatial colonial with formal center hall plan, and every amenity. Two fireplaces, central air conditioning, den and family room. A very workable plan for the man or woman who wants to work at home! Geared for the discriminating buyer! Asking only $119,000!

THE ULTIMATE IN WEST WINDSOR! Luxury, comfort, superbly designed air conditioned home, heated swimming pool, covered screened patio enhanced by magnificent landscaping and fully fenced grounds. You name it - this house has everything imaginable! Spacious living room, dining room, paneled family room w/fireplace and winding stairway to MBR suite, kitchen w/breakfast area and powder room. Unique master bedroom suite w/sitting room, two separate dressing rooms, bath, office, three more bedrooms and two baths, plus the convenience of an upstairs laundry; heated two-car garage and all so close to the railroad station, shopping and schools. Call to see this nifty house $129,500

A SUPERB CONTEMPORARY AT THE "IN SPOT" OF THE PRINCETON AREA! ROLLING HILL ROAD, OVERLOOKING THE POND ON THE BEDENS BROOK GOLF COURSE, NATURALLY! One of Hunt & Augustine's most imaginative houses with sliding doors from every room to the outside! A lovely, naturally wooded lot blooming with rhododendrons, dogwoods, and pachasandra! Inside there is a spectacular balcony on the staircase overlooking the living room with Williamsburg fireplace with brick from floor to ceiling! Beautifully designed for entertaining with all the amenities a house of this calibre should have... air conditioning, central vacuum system, library, two staircases, five bedrooms, three full and two half baths, full open stairs to a future game room, and much more. Where other houses are selling for more than two hundred thousand, we're asking only $179,900

PEOPLE In The News

Vivian H. Lowenstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Lowenstein of Raymond Road, has received a bachelor of science degree in nursing from Wagner College, Staten Island, N.Y. A Dean's List honor student, she represented her class as speaker at the nurse's day "pinning" ceremony recently.

Ulrich A. Frank, 945 Stuart Road, a senior member of the technical staff of Roche Medical Electronics, Inc. in Cranbury, has been awarded a U.S. patent for respiratory stimulator for newborn infants. The system detects breath interruption and automatically raises a small pillow under the upper half of the baby, startling the patient into natural respiration. The device is particularly applicable for those prematurely born.

Airman James Jefferson of R.D. 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jefferson Jr., has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the U.S. Air Force technical training course for accounting specialists. A graduate of South Brunswick High School in Monmouth Junction, he has been assigned to Pease AFB, N.H. for duty with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Two area residents are rowing for Princeton University. Carol Cadle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don D. Cadle of 237 Wendover Drive is a member of the women's crew, while Jon Jaffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Jaffin of 522 Rosedale Road is rowing with the varsity lightweight crew. Miss Cadle is a graduate of Princeton Day School; Mr. Jaffin, one of five returning letterman, is a graduate of Lawrenceville School.

Randall S. Eiger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Eiger, 245 Moore Street, placed third in a Chinese-American essay contest held at the University of Missouri-Columbia where he is a graduate student.

Professor Jean Labatut of Maybury Hill, a fellow of the American Institute of Architects, is the first recipient of an award for "lasting achievement in architectural education" from the American Institute of Architects and the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture. Professor Labatut, who received the award for teaching excellence, counts 25 practicing area architects among his former students at Princeton University's school of architecture.

Jonathan E. Freedman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Henry H. Freedman, 138 Valley Road, is one of three students elected this spring to the poetry board of The Harvard Advocate, Harvard University's literary magazine. A graduate of Princeton High School, he is a sophomore concentrating in biochemical sciences.

The dance works of Donald Blumenfeld, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Blumenfeld, 39 Randall Road, will be presented Saturday at Douglass College. Mr. Blumenfeld is a Rutgers College graduate and with six other dancers will present, among other works, a new piece called "Sign" which uses deaf-mute sign language and abstract movement and was created under a New Jersey State Council for the Arts Grant.

Karen Winn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon C. Winn, 160 Sycamore Road, has accepted a position at the University of Kentucky in Lexington, as an equitation instructor. A 1973 Princeton High School graduate, Miss Winn will receive a degree in Animal Science from the University of Massachusetts on May 22.

She has been a member of the UMass Equestrian Drill Team for the past three years. She recently qualified for the National Championships in the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association by placing among the top four riders in her division at the New England Regional Championships. Karen will also do graduate studies at the University of Kentucky in Animal Science in addition to her duties as instructor.

Nina Tocco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santo Tocco, 406 Terhune Road, has been awarded the first prize in the Anna B. Stokes piano competition held May 1. The competition was open to all Mercer County residents.

A student of Naomi Chandler, she won first prize in the Mary Gindhart piano com-

News Of The THEATRES

McCARTER, YES!
1976-77 Season Planned. The show will go on. McCarter's Board of Trustees announced this week that all current programs in drama, film, dance, music and events for children will be continued next season.
McCarter has raised something over one-half of the $120,000 needed to balance the budget for the '76-'77 season, according to Thomas H. Wright, chairman of the executive committee of the Board of Trustees.

"Though a substantial amount is yet to be raised," he said, "We can begin the season and are encouraged about attracting the additional funds necessary to complete it."
He warned, however, that "the same sense of urgency remains," and added that "the further support of every element in the region — individuals, foundations, corporations and the government — will be necessary in order to fill that need."
The McCarter Associates continues to ask individuals to join, with a donation of $25 or more. Mrs. Thomas Paine, president of the Associates' Board of Trustees, pointed out that broad-based support from individuals demonstrates to foundations and corporations that "a great many people from throughout the region think of McCarter as an important cultural resource."

AUDITION!
For Inn Cabaret. Performers and audiences alike learned this week that Inn Cabaret will be back again this summer, with Friday nights of comedy and music in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn. The ten-week season begins June 18.

Auditions will be held in the Prince William Room this Sunday, Monday and Tuesday — May 16, 17 and 18 from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Singers, dancers, actors, writers and musicians are in demand. If you want to audition, you should be prepared to sing at least one song and should bring music with you. You may do a comedy audition, too, or will be given material to read. Writers should bring a sample of work.
Daniel F. Berkowitz, director of the Cabaret; Roo Brown, vocal director, and Joan Morton Lucas, choreographer, will run the auditions. Don Boroson, who has been musical director for most of the Cabaret shows, will be the accompanist.

CREATIVE PICNICS

With Summer Theatre. When Creative Theatre Unlimited opens its summer season of classes for kids this year, even picnic lunches will be "a creative event," according to C.T.U. directors.

"Youngsters in grades one through nine will have a special kind of summer experience," says director Pam Hoffman.

Day-long sessions, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., will provide classes in creative drama, movement, stagecraft and improvisation. For children in first and second grades, and in grades three, four and five, there will be story-telling time, people-watching trips, costumes and make-up and work with masks and puppets.

In grades six through nine, students will enter upon scene study, playwriting, stagecraft and scenic design, with a final production at the end of the season.

Students will have a choice of creative arts projects: building a giant dragon out of junk, making slide and light shows, sculpting from wood or clay.

There will be two sessions. The first will start June 1 and end June 29; the second will start July 7 and continue through July 31. Each session will end with an outdoor festival.

Classes will be held in the parish house at Trinity Church and all crafts and special projects will take place outdoors. Pam Hoffman of the Creative Theatre staff, will direct the program and teach, assisted by Paul Hoffman, scenic designer for New Jersey Public Broadcasting. Registration is limited to ten per class and will be accepted through June 1. Additional information may be obtained from C.T.U. at 33 Mercer Street, Princeton, 924-3489 or from Mrs. Hoffman at 883-3772.

DANCE CLASSES SET

By Joffrey Director. Master ballet classes, taught by Sally Brayley Bliss, director, and Maria Grandy, assistant director, of the Joffrey II Company, will be given at the Princeton Ballet Society's studios, 262 Alexander Street, Princeton, on Thursday, May 20 and Friday, May 21.

Open to any dance students eighth grade and up, the schedule includes a beginner-intermediate class from 12:30 to 2 p.m. on Thursday, May 20, and an intermediate class from noon to 1:30 p.m. and an advanced intermediate-advanced class from 1:45 to 3:15 p.m. on Friday, May 21.

The Joffrey master classes were arranged by Edward Martenson, general manager of the McCarter Theater Company; Ze'eva Cohen, head

No Phoebe Snow

Singer Phoebe Snow has cancelled her entire east-coast tour, including two performances scheduled for McCarter on Saturday, May 29.

Refunds are available from the place of purchase, through Friday, June 11. McCarter has announced plans to book Miss Snow as part of its fall program of pop events.

of the dance program of Princeton University's Department of Theatre and Dance; and Audree Estey, director of the Princeton Ballet Society.

Mrs. Bliss, who will teach the Friday classes, started her career with the National Ballet of Canada and was a former soloist with the Metropolitan Opera Ballet and the Joffrey Ballet as well as a guest artist with American Ballet Theatre.

Miss Grandy, former ballet mistress of the New York City Opera Ballet who has taught at the Joffrey school in New York for twelve years and danced with the New York City Ballet, the Metropolitan Opera Ballet and Joffrey, will teach the Thursday class.

The fee for each class is $4. To register for classes, telephone the Princeton Ballet Society at 609-921-7758 between 10 a.m. and noon or 2 to 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays.

TWO BY HITCHCOCK

At Theatre Intime. Two Alfred Hitchcock thrillers will be shown this weekend by Theatre Intime. Cary Grant and Eva Marie Saint may be seen Friday at 8 and again at 10:30 in "North by Northwest," a fast-paced film about an advertising executive caught in a web of intrigue and mistaken identity.

"Strangers on a Train," sometimes called Hitchcock's greatest work, will be shown Saturday at 8 and 10. Starring Farley Granger as a tennis player with political aspirations who meets a madman on a train, the film centers on a double murder plot and comes to a suspense-

FOLK TALES ADAPTED
In Student Productions. Humor, pathos, fantasy and the bizarre are among the elements of Jewish folk literature explored in "Tales of Our Fathers," a work of collaborative theatre opening Friday at 8 in "The Space," 110 Green Hall Annex, corner of Nassau Street and Washington Road. The production, directed by Steven Reisner and Ricki Rosen, consists of student adaptations of three classic Jewish folktales.

Issac Bashevis Singer's "The Silver Spoons," and "Devotion Without End," are the work of Princeton junior Bruce Green, author of the successful "Lysistrata" at Theatre Intime. The third play, I.C. Peretz's "Bontsche Sweig," has been adapted by sophomores Nancy Miller and Barbara Schottenfeld.

The company is an ensemble rather than a cast, which means that all contribute equally to the final product. "The Space," in which it will be performed, was formerly a warehouse, and is a mixture of platforms, balconies, stairways, railings, ropes, pulleys, and chains which the performers will incorporate into their creation of various moods and images.

Many of the members of the "Tales of Our Fathers" company are also involved with the Brighton Lights Theatre Company, or the Brooklyn Jewish Theatre, which will perform classic Jewish plays in the Brighton Beach area of Brooklyn this summer. The final performance of "Tales of Our Fathers" on May 22 will be a benefit for this group. Tickets for the benefit are priced at $3 for students and $5 for others.

The three other performances of "Tales of Our Fathers," on May 14, 15 and 21, will have free admission. For further information, call 452-8181 on the day of performance.

"THE RED SHOES"
At Public Library. On Thursday, May 20, at 8 p.m., the Princeton Public Library will present the feature film "The Red Shoes" in the meeting room. Moira Shearer stars in this Hans Christian Andersen tale of a young ballerina torn between love of dancing and love of her husband.

The Riviera background and performance of the Sadler Wells Corps de Ballet comprise the setting. The free, two hour and 20 minute screening is made possible through the bequest of the late Edith Barenholtz and the Friends of the Library.

LAWRENCEVILLE ERIC
Family Plot. Alfred Hitchcock's 53rd film and the old master is in top form. For this comedy suspense-drama,

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

Hitchcock has toned down the shock value and accentuated the humor, as he spins his complex web.

Although the sense of menace may be missing, in most respects "Family Plot" is still quintessential Hitchcock. There is a complex plot that begins as a tantalizing mystery which is "solved" relatively early on and then shifts to pure suspense. And again there is one of his favorite themes: what happens when relatively innocent bystanders find themselves unwittingly - and dangerously - enmeshed in someone else's criminal doings.

Fine lead performances by Bruce Dern, Karen Black and Barbara Harris.

PRINCE

Seven Beauties...That's What They Call Him. Sex, politics and the Italian national character - the themes that fascinate Lina Wertmuller - have again been masterfully combined by her into a rich - textured, stunningly - realized tale of personal compromise and political collaboration.

The film stars Giancarlo Giannini as a World War II deserter whose machismo is so ingrained in his instinct for survival that he ends up "seducing" the sadistic female commandant of a Nazi concentration camp in the vain hope of saving his neck.

Taken at one of its many levels, "Seven Beauties" is a harsh, uncompromising examination of a national character that places superficial concerns with virility and social honor over any true value. Its prime focus is on the nature of human self-preservation and the depths to which a man will surrender mind, body and soul to save himself.

It is not without Wertmuller's unique brand of humor and the Neapolitan sequences are far closer in tone to her earlier films than the grimness that comes later. Her richest film yet, one that will long linger disturbingly in her viewers' memories.

MUSIC In Princeton

INSTRUMENTALISTS SET
In High School Concert. Princeton High School instrumentalists will be heard in symphonies and concerti in a spring concert Wednesday, May 19, at 8 in the auditorium. Heather Helms and Amy Jo Parrella will be featured in the Concerto Grosso in A Minor for two violins by Vivaldi, with Beatrice Liu playing the harpsichord. Peter Florey will play the first movement of the Boccherini Cello Concerto, and Sylvia Lavin the first movement of the Mozart Flute Concerto, K 313. Amy Ford will perform two movements from a Telemann Suite for alto recorder and strings, with Phil LaBar at the harpsichord. An original keyboard part has been written for the Symphony No. 8 of Boyce by Peter Goldstein, a theory independent study student, who will perform the continuo with the orchestra. The program will conclude with two highly contrasting pieces, the "London" Symphony of Haydn and sections of the "Mississippi Suite" by Ferde Grofe. Portia Sonnenfeld, director of instrumental music at the high school, will conduct the orchestra.

CONCERT TUESDAY
Of 20th Century Music. Jayn Seigel, flutist and Cheryl Seltzer, pianist, with Judith Nicosia, soprano, and Christine Curcio, flutist, will give a concert Tuesday, at 8:30 in the Woolworth Center Rehearsal Room on campus. The program will be devoted to 20th-Century music by Berio, Kolb, Pollock, Rausch, Varese, Sollberger, SOLOIST: Sylvia Lavin will be one of the soloists in the Spring Concert by orchestra and instrumentalists Wednesday, May 19 at Princeton High School.

Westergaard, Roussel and Rovicis. Miss Seigel has performed extensively in chamber, orchestral and solo music, and regularly plays with the Performers' Committee for Twentieth-Century Music at Columbia University. She has performed as first flutist and soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra in Philadelphia and the Princeton Chamber Orchestra. Formerly first flutist of the American Symphony Orchestra under Leopold Stokowski and first flutist of the Master Virtuosi of New York, Miss Seigel is currently teaching flute at Princeton University.

Cheryl Seltzer made her professional debut with the San Francisco Symphony in 1957. Miss Seltzer has been especially involved with the performance of twentieth-century music, and was acclaimed recently for her playing of solo and chamber works in the "Festival of the Old and New" at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. A resident of New York City, she co-directs the highly successful Performers' Committee for Twentieth-Century Music at Columbia University.

Miss Nicosia teaches voice and theory at Westminster Choir College. She has made a number of appearances in Princeton, both in opera and in solo performances. Miss Christine Curcio works in the Psychology Department of Princeton University and is studying flute with Jayn Seigel. The concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music, is free and open to the public.

RECITAL SCHEDULED
By University Seniors. Two Princeton University seniors, Barbara Allen, mezzo-soprano and Douglas Culbertson, pianist, will give a joint recital on Sunday at 3 in the Woolworth Center Rehearsal Room.

Miss Allen has been a member of the Washington Civic and Northern Virginia Opera Societies. While at Princeton she has been a member and soloist in the Glee Club and Chamber Chorus and has given two recitals. A student in the Woodrow Wilson School, Miss Allen has studied voice with Shirlee Emmons. She will perform works by Vaughan Williams, Hovhannes, Rorem and Ravel.

Mr. Culbertson began his piano studies at the age of seven. He has studied with Jerry Kuderna of Princeton and is currently studying with Robert Helps in New York. For his program he will perform, Mozart: Sonata in B flat Major; Beethoven: Sonata in C Major, Opus 53 and Chopin: Scherzo in B flat Minor, Opus 31 and Scherzo in B Minor, Opus 23.

The concert, sponsored by the Friends of Music is free and open to the public.

Mezzo-soprano Frederica von Stade Sparkles As Actress and Vocalist in Imaginative Program

Mezzo-soprano Frederica von Stade sparkled through her performance at McCarter on Tuesday evening, May 4. She is as fine an actress as a vocalist, and her abilities were admirably displayed during her unusually imaginative program.

Seven groups of songs were presented, and though one could speak of all, only the highlights can be mentioned here. The Ives songs, which ranged from the nostalgia of "Memories" to the humor of "Ann Street," was the most whimsical group of the evening.

Von Stade portrayed them with just the right intermingling of sauciness and seriousness. Accompanist Martin Katz, helped create the volatile mood, especially in "Memories," where these thoughts of the past seemed to drift up through the piano part. These songs are unique in form, stopping short, flashing into unexpected areas, and sometimes ending as though more might have come but did not.

The Poulenc songs were the only others to capture the gaiety of the Ives Group. The first and last, "Les Gars Qui Vont a la Fete," and "Fetes Galantes," which both are holiday songs, bounce from start to finish. They are both patter songs, with vocalist and pianist alike racing through their paces only to come to a light and perfectly timed halt.

The Poulenc group also contained sleeker music, such as "Hotel," and more ferocious fare as in "Le Portrait." Both Von Stade and Katz seemed equally at ease with all.

The groups of songs by Mahler and Debussy also demand mention. These made very different demands on both performers. The Mahler required smooth control, delicate nuance, and a complete change of demeanour. Particularly well-handled in these respects was "Wo Die Schönen Trompeten Blasen."

Vocally, the rendition was exquisite. The sadness of the text was captured not by obvious portrayal, but rather through a remoteness of gesture. Only an artist of real creative power could have accomplished this.

The Debussy songs were closer to the Poulenc, though more complex. The accompaniments were highly figured, the melodies supple. The first of the group, "Mandoline," was given an especially apt performance.

Frederica Von Stade is a rare singer who has a lovely instrument and the wit and intelligence to use it both creatively and directly.

PREMIERE PLANNED

Of Cello Suite. Addison Alspach, a retired professor of music at the University of Minnesota at Duluth, recently wrote a suite for his daughter, Elizabeth Lamb, a cellist who lives in Trenton and plays frequently in the Princeton area.

Mrs. Lamb has organized a recital for the premiere of this piece, as well as four other works, Sunday at 4:30, in the music conservatory of Olga Gorelli on Scotch Road, Pennington.

The recital is open to the public and will include a string quartet, some children's piano pieces, a clarinet-piano suite and a piano solo work in addition to the cello suite. Performers will include Olga Gorelli, pianist; Clarence Chang, pianist; Curt Carlson, violin; Everett Shaw, viola; Anne Florey, violin and Elizabeth Lamb, cello.

CHORAL FESTIVAL SET

By Combined Schools. The choir of Lawrenceville, Pennington, Stuart, Princeton Day and Hun Schools and St. Mary's Hall of Burlington will combine in the annual Independent Schools Choral Festival to be held Sunday at 8 in Alexander Hall on the University campus.

Under the direction of Frank Jacobson, chairman of the Princeton Day School music department, the chorus of 130 voices will join with an orchestra of local students and professional musicians in presenting a program of music by American composers.

The program will include "The Last Words of David," by Randall Thompson; "Magnificat," by Alan Hovhannes; "Two Public Pieces for Chorus and Tape," by Richard Feciano; and the premiere performance of Psalm 47 by Paul Hofreiter of Pennington. Student soloists will be spranos - Michelle Nicastro and Allison Greene; alto, Donna Weir; tenor, Jon Spiegel; and baritones, Paul Wieman and Mark Blaxill.

Admission is free, but a collection will be taken to defray expenses and to support the orchestras which supply the festival with instrumentalists.

REPEAT IS PLANNED

For Summer Sounds Series. "Summer Sounds", the free community concerts enjoyed last summer by Princetonians of all ages, will be back again by popular request. Plans are now in full swing to up-date the series of outdoor musical evenings during July and August.

All suggestions for pleasant outdoor locations, for preferred types of musical entertainment and the names of favorite performing groups are welcome. Also, any musical groups wishing to perform and, most important, any young people interested in planning and working on this community project, should write to Summer Sounds Concert Committee, c/o Denise King, Recreation Department, Valley Road School.

CONCERT THURSDAY

At Middle School. The second of two music programs will be presented by students of John Witherspoon Middle School on Thursday, at 8. The concerts will be under the direction of Joachim Parrella, choral organizations; Portia Sonnenfeld, orchestra and

ART In Princeton

FROM JAPAN

Brush Painting on View. Muromachi painting of the 14th to the 16th century is a subject involving complex scholarship which encompasses the religions of two nations as well as the history, cultural development and social growth of Japan.

Brush painting had its origins in China but was adapted by the Japanese in the 14th century. Its development was closely linked to Zen Buddhism through the monasteries in which Japanese monks were deeply involved with Chinese arts and scholarship. It flourished from the 14th through the 16th century. At that time it declined, paralleling the decline of Zen as a cultural force.

It is possible to appreciate the collection of muromachi scrolls at the Princeton University Art Museum with or without the complex and extensive amounts of data dealing with this art form. Although the collection is highly significant for the scholar, it is equally meaningful for the uninitiated, provided the viewer is equipped to enjoy sensitive line, expressive drawing, technical expertise and the evocative poetry that is inherent in this genre.

The Japanese developed their brushwork into a unique, expressive form which allowed the artist to capture the essence of his subject with minimal brushstroke. Volume, rather than line, was often employed to narrate the characteristics of the subject. The use of muted tones as well as vigorous blacks, soft washes and crisp fine detail enabled the artist to express the emotional as well as the visual qualities of the subject. Nature forms, landscape, animals and people are rendered with a visual sensitivity that captures a greater truth than the amount depicted.

Within the mannered vocabulary of the Muromachi artist there is a stylistic variety as well as a range of subject. Vague, almost minimal, renditions are juxtaposed with sharp, intricate, renderings decorated with elaborate pattern. Many scrolls focus on mood, while their companions deal directly with the essence of the subject material.

The setting for this unusual collection has been developed to create the richest possible background for appreciating the art. Small, carefully designed gardens are judiciously placed among the screens and scrolls. A small thicket of bamboo is surrounded by a wooden bench offering a tranquil site from which to enjoy the art. A traditional tokonama, an alcove for displaying art and artifacts, completes the scene.

The collection is accompanied by a clearly-written catalogue that is a complement to its subject. Although it is a scholarly work, filled with all of the supportive information necessary for serious contemplation of the collection, it goes far to enrich the casual viewing experience as well.

At McCarter Theatre. Of the characteristics of watercolor many materials used in paint would seem most likely surface painting, the basic

Clubs and Organizations

The Single Set, an organization for anyone single, separated, widowed or divorced, has announced the opening of an additional chapter at the Treadway Inn, U.S. Route 1, Sunday, May 23. It will feature a live band, and guests are welcome.

The Single Set currently meets every Friday night at the Treadway. This chapter will celebrate its first anniversary on Friday, July 9. The Friday night Treadway Inn chapter is under the direction of Raymond Kressler, (215)862-5889; the Sunday night chapter is under Irv Stein, 799-3144. Anyone wishing additional information and a current calendar of events, may write P.O. Box 24, Lafayette Hill, Penna. 19444.

The Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey will hold its annual May meeting Wednesday, May 19, at 8 at the home of Mrs. Martin Chooljian, 63 Winfield Drive.

In addition to the election of officers, Mrs. Barbara Wilson, director of career services at Wellesley, will talk about her work in job counseling as well as life with her husband as a resident at Tower Court at the College.

At its annual Strawberry Festival Tuesday, B'Nai B'Rith Women, Princeton Chapter, will install officers for 1976-1977. The meeting and festival will be held at 8 p.m. at 231 Brookstone Drive, and all members and interested friends are welcome.

For the coming year, Ilse B. Frederick will take over the organization's presidency. Assisting her will be membership co-chairmen Anita Cohen and Manuela Bornstein; program chairman, Johanna Friedman; fund-raising chairman, Anita Wilson; publicity, Florence Rosenberg; bulletin, Roz Goldberg; treasurer, Anita Blanc; financial secretary, Grace Wile; recording secretary, Toby Cowen; corresponding secretary, Fran Frankel.

Following the installation, a nature slide show will be presented by Mrs. Bernice Schwartz, co-author with her husband of "Life in a Log."

The Radcliffe Club will hold its annual spring cocktail and garden party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Lilienthal, 88 Battle Road, on Sunday from 4 to 6. Proceeds will benefit the club's scholarship fund. As in the past, Harvard alumni as well as Radcliffe alumnae, and their friends, are invited. Chairman is Mrs. Elwood Phares, assisted by Mrs. Joseph M. Lynch, Mrs. G.P. Volpp, Mrs. William Gregg, Mrs. Stephen Adler, and Mrs. Kenneth Levy.

Caroline Moseley

The Women's College Club will hold its annual meeting and luncheon Monday at 11:30 at the Present Day Club. There will be a brief business meeting with the election of officers and board members and the announcement of this year's scholarship winners from the Princeton high schools. A sherry party will precede the luncheon.

Folk singer and guitarist Caroline Moseley will entertain with a program of American Folk Songs. Known as a performer and lecturer, she has taught courses in folk music and song at the Princeton Adult School.

The Princeton Chapter, National Association of Accountants, will hold its annual recognition night and dinner dance on Saturday at 8 at Washington's Crossing Inn. The "Person of the Year Award" will be given to the member having made the outstanding contributions to the chapter for the 1975-1976 year. For reservations, call Frank Olsson, 921-9103.

The Hook & Ladder Ladies' Auxiliary will hold a rummage sale Friday, May 21, from 9 until 4, rain or shine, at the Fire House on North Harrison Street. If anyone has anything to donate, call Judy at 924-0396.

The Soroptimist International will meet Tuesday at 6:30 at the home of Miriam Kimmel, 1 Harrison Lane, Princeton Junction. The nominating committee will present a slate of officers for the coming year.

The N.J. Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc. will hold its annual convention in Atlantic City this Friday and Saturday. Attending from Princeton will be Mesdames Josephine Konover, Polly Lyons, Barbara Majorowitz, Wanda Mendez, president, Carolyn O'Brien, Muriel Perrine and Jean Wiggs.

At the next meeting of the Central New Jersey Chapter of the National Society for Autistic Children, to be held Tuesday, at 8 p.m., at the Princeton United Methodist Church, (first entrance on Vandeventer), "First Things First", a new film by the American Occupational Therapy Assn., Inc. will be presented. Miss Barbara Knickerbocker, OTR will lead a discussion and answer questions on the developmental process necessary for learning. For further information please call Jeanne Willig at 799-2314.

The annual luncheon and meeting of the Dogwood Garden Club will be held Thursday, at 11:30 at the home of Mrs. Charles Cornforth II on Westcott Road. Annual committee reports will be due, and new officers will be installed. They include Mrs. Edward L. McCall; president; Mrs. Donald C. Theil, first vice-president; Mrs. Theodore T. Tams Jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Robert C. Forrey, recording secretary; Mrs. Cameron Ogden, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Louis Gerber, treasurer. Mrs. Sherwood Skillman will act as co-hostess.

The Delaware Valley Poets Chapter of the New Jersey Poetry Society will meet Thursday, May 20, at 8 in Firestone Library Staff lounge. Lee Walmsley, a Princeton University senior in the Creative Writing Program, will read poems from her work, "Possessions." Mrs. Paul Ramsey is chapter chairman. The public is invited.

The Lawrenceville Garden Club will meet Tuesday at Kale's Nursery on Carter Road. Mr. Kale will demonstrate how to prune plants, shrubbery and trees.

The annual luncheon meeting of the Woman's Club will be held Thursday, May 20, at noon at Forsgate Country Club. Arrangements have been made by Mrs. Nicholas Manni and her committee, Mrs. Norman Jackson and Mrs. Alfred Rozas. New officers will be installed by Mrs. Donald Bixby, former president of New Jersey Federated Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Marjorie Mollenauer, harpist, will present a program entitled "The Harp in Music History." Mrs. Mollenauer began harp study as a student of concert harpist Mildred Dilling and the famed harpist-composer, Henrietta Renie in Paris. Arrangements for the program have been made by Mrs. John L. Wanda Mendez, president, Johnson, program chairman.

to encourage creative and expressive results. The pigment, suspended in a water-based medium, is applied in a fluid fashion on rich rag papers, generally with a soft, natural bristle brush to enhance the character of the paint. The ideal standard for the result is fresh, translucent color, fluid wash and a sense of light created by the translucent nature of the paint.
This year, for the first time, a group of watercolor painters with respect for the integrity of the medium and a range of visual skills have surfaced at the Princeton Art Association Juried Watercolor Show at McCarter Theatre. Until the present show, this annual event illustrated only the difficulties inherent in the medium.
The majority of the artists have respected the quality of the paint and responded to its clarity and fluidity by employing the characteristics to enhance form and enrich the visual effects created by their subject. The level of excellence possible within the highly-traditional painting can be seen in the present collection. It is complemented by the display of creative, interpretive approaches this medium is suited to, as well as paintings that examine color and design relationships, without the encumbrance of subject.

The award winners are pleasing, but, with the exception of Dorothy Bissell's seascape, the judges overlooked the paintings that favored a more creative use of the medium and indicated their partiality to more conservative forms. Landscapes by Dunn, Kahn and Geiser demonstrate that it is possible to retain the essence of the subject matter while using color and form to interpret the poetry of the subject and the medium, as well as depicting the surface.
As in most juried shows there are a few paintings that are no tribute to the medium. Muddy, overworked color and carelessly-rendered subjects have no place within a collection as pleasing as the current display.
At Grovers Mill Graphics, Multi-color woodcuts by Marci McDonald are featured with two dimensional wooden constructions by Sandra Carson. Carson has created an unusual and personal statement by creating works that function as paintings, although they are constructed of carefully wrought wooden sections finished with a color stain developed by the artist. The works are made of unattached parts similar to a puzzle but give the effect of a mosaic because of their intricacy and the luminosity created by the color stains on the carefully-finished wood.
McDonald's woodcuts deal with landscape and nature forms and an occasional cat. They are traditional in character but are executed with craftsmanship and masterful technique that takes them beyond the commonplace into the real realm of unusual artistic renditions.

ART CLASSES PLANNED
By Color Wheel. A new session of art classes is about to begin at the Color Wheel, 23B West Delaware Avenue, Pennington.
Geared toward active summer schedules, the season features six-week evening sessions in painting and drawing, beginning June 1. A six-week daytime session in oils and watercolors will get under way June 10.
As a special summer feature, Dorothy Bissell, noted Princeton watercolorist, will instruct a three-week, concentrated daytime course in landscape painting. Landscape classes will meet on location outdoors.
Registration for summer art classes is now in progress at the Color Wheel Art Supplies of Pennington, 737-1229.

petition in 1972 and placed second in 1975 in both the Mary Gindhart and the Anna B. Stokes competitions. A junior at Princeton High School, she is a member of the choir and plays the organ, guitar and accordion.

A new book, "The Nature of Human Aggression," by Ashley Montagu of 321 Cherry Valley Road has been published by Oxford University Press. In it Mr. Montagu debunks the idea that man is an innate killer. He refutes point by point such proof of our "killer instinct" as the existence of cannibalism and territoriality, the idea that tools were originally utilized as implements for killing, and the practice of extrapolating to human behavior the evidence of animal behavior.

Born in England, Mr. Montagu was educated at the University of London, University of Florence and Columbia University. He came to the United States to teach anatomy, first at New York University and then at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia. He also was professor and head of the department of anthropology at Rutgers.

Lawrence B. Medwin, son of Mr. & Mrs. Albert H. Medwin of 65 Castle Howard Court will receive his master's degree in electrical engineering from Cornell University on May 28. He will continue his studies towards a Ph.D. degree while working at the RCA Laboratories in Princeton.

At the same time his brother, Steven J. Medwin will receive his bachelor's degree with distinction in mechanical engineering from Cornell. The University of Pennsylvania has awarded him a research fellowship to continue his studies towards a master's degree in bio-engineering.

Leonard Kingsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benedict Kingsley of 163 Loumis Court, was elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Cornell University. He was graduated cum laude in mathematics and is now an actuarial trainee with the Equitable Life Insurance Company in New York City.

Suzanne Horrigan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Donald Horrigan, 178 Stockton Street, was named grand champion high point rider in the National Intercollegiate Horse Showers Association competition held this month at Mt. Holyoke.

Miss Horrigan is captain of the Colby-Sawyer College equestrian team which the previous week finished second to Mt. Holyoke in the Region III competition. Eighty-four colleges from 10 states participated in the national competition. Only four riders from each division were selected to go to the nationals.

Last year, as a freshman at the New London, N.H. school, Miss Horrigan won a blue ribbon in open horsemanship over fences in regional competition.

Herbert E. Alexander, 152 Clover Lane, was a guest on the Today Show in connection with the publication of his book, "Financing the 1972 Election." He was interviewed by Jim Hartz, the show's host, who related the findings to the current Presidential campaigns. Dr. Alexander is Director of the Citizens' Research Foundation, a Princeton-based organization that studies the role of money in politics.

RED CROSS TO MEET

On May 26 at Nassau Inn. The annual meeting of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held on Wednesday, May 26, at the Nassau Inn.

Election of new officers and board members will be held, and Ann Honore, executive director of the Princeton Chapter, will give an annual report on the 16 programs functioning under the Red Cross banner. Reservations may be made by calling Chapter headquarters at 924-2404. The Princeton Chapter is a partner with the Princeton Area United Community Fund.

R. Morton Darrow, vice-president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., will be guest speaker. Mr. Darrow, who lives on Hickory Court is a Futurist for Prudential, and has taught in both History and Economics at Rutgers and Pace College, and at Princeton University and CCNY. He also served as Secretary of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development. He is a graduate of Columbia University, and took his Doctorate there.

Mr. Darrow will speak on the topic "With an Eye Toward Tomorrow."

RECEIVES CERTIFICATE

For English Courses. Vincent Baldino, an Italian mason who lives at 170 Linden Lane, recently received the first certificate ever awarded by the Princeton Adult School's English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) program.

Mrs. Elizabeth Shanefield, English III instructor, held a surprise party honoring Mr. Baldino as the first student ever to complete English I, II, and III in succession. Also at the presentation were Mrs. Anne B. Shepherd, Adult School curriculum chairman, and Mrs. Mary Jane Fleming, executive vice chairman.

Mr. Baldino first came to the United States in 1968 for one year and then returned to Italy. Three years later he came back to Princeton and entered the English I program in Mrs. Anita Beck's class, knowing no English at all. The following years he studied English II and III with Mrs. Shanefield, completing the classes in December, 1974, and going on into the High School Equivalency Program, also at the Adult School.

Mr. Baldino's wife, Maria, is a student in Mrs. Katherine Miller's English II class, having entered the program as a beginner in 1973. His brothers, Louis and John continue to study English II, and his mother took a class several years ago.

42 other adults in the ESOL program have also received English certificates.

WATER IS TOPIC

Of Sierra Club Meeting. The May meeting of the Sierra Club's Central Jersey Group will be held Tuesday, May 18, in Peyton Hall, Ivy Lane, at 8. Adele Mitchell, director of the Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association, will examine the impact that legislation, such as 208 of the Clean Water Act, programs, and area planning have had in the past and can have in the future, on New Jersey's water quality.

Using informal discussion and slides, Ms. Mitchell will describe how the citizen can help remedy and avert erosion, polluted water, and sediment build-up. She will describe how citizens can act in an informed and decisive manner on issues such as sewage treatment, basin planning, and property rights, which affect water quality. The meeting is open to the public.

SCHOOLS ARE SUBJECT Of League Meetings. The Princeton Area League of Women Voters will present the first part of a study of the Princeton Regional School System during the week of May 17.

Identical programs will be given at three meetings in Princeton: Monday, 8 p.m. 47 Gordon Way; Tuesday, 9 A.M., Methodist Church and Thursday, noon, 100 Gulick Road.

Each program will cover three topics: state and local relations, including the effect of state law and administration on Princeton schools; structure, from superintendent to pupils; student services, including the administration of programs for pupils with physical, mental or learning disabilities. In addition, a consensus will be sought on community participation in school planning.

Participants will have a chance to find out how much they know about local schools in a quickie quiz which will begin each meeting. A discussion period will follow the presentation. The second part of the study, which will include a survey of the Princeton Regional Schools budget and curriculum, will be presented at a later time. Twenty members of the local League of Women Voters are participating in the study. The women, representing neighborhoods in both Princeton Borough and Township, have been working on the study since April, 1975.

The Montgomery Unit of the League will host a pot luck dinner on Wednesday, May 19 at the Rocky Hill Bank on Route 518 in Rocky Hill. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and will be followed by a speaker, Richard Schmidt, Director, Montgomery Board of Recreation, who will discuss "Recreation in

WORKSHOPS SCHEDULED

In Remedial Reading. The Communication Disorders Unit of the Medical Center at Princeton will conduct a summer reading workshop for youngsters with reading difficulties.

The program is divided into two sessions, the first starting June 28, and the second session on August 2. Both will run for a four-week period.

In addition to the remedial reading program, a writing workshop and a developmental reading program for high school students will be conducted over a five-week period beginning on June 28. These innovative programs are being offered for the first time by the Communication Disorders Unit of the Medical Center.

Mrs. Mary Ann Mosso and Mrs. Merle Rose, reading specialists at the unit, will provide a program of instruction which includes remedial reading, critical thinking, comprehension, vocabulary, writing and study skills.

Mrs. Rose said that "all remedial instruction will be based on testing completed prior to admission to the program." Mrs. Mosso noted, "participants will be grouped to three or four youngsters per session, according to age, needs and personalities." Registration for diagnostic reading evaluation will be held from June 1-11.

Anyone wishing further information about the summer reading workshop may call the Communication Disorders Unit at 921-7700, extension 404 or 227, between 9 and 5.

SUMMER PROGRAM SET

By Stuart School. A co-educational summer program for children 3 to 5 years old will be held at Stuart Country Day School during the summer months.

Three two-week sessions will begin on June 28 and will continue through August 6 each morning from 9 a.m. until noon.

Diane Tilgner, a Princeton resident, and a graduate of Shippensburg State Teachers College, will be the school's director. Miss Tilgner majored in elementary education and is a Montessori-trained teacher. Her past experience includes work in the Bristol, Pa., recreational program and Director and Head teacher of the First Christian Nursery School in Levittown, Pa. She is presently a teacher in the Pre-School at Stuart Country Day School.

Applications for the summer program and for the regular Pre-School year beginning in September are available by calling the Stuart School office between 8 and 3.

ANNUAL DINNER FRIDAY

For Watersheds Association. The annual dinner of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association will be held this Friday at the ETS Conference Center. The focus for the evening will be on water problems and environmental issues.

As the main event of the evening, Chris Hall, attorney and co-director of the Natural Resources Defense Council Project on Clean Water will speak on current problems with the Federal Water Quality Law and on the implementation of water quality requirements across the nation.

The NRDC has been in the forefront in pressing for rulings on the implementation of water standards as well as proceeding with cases to establish the extent of enforcement of these laws through court action. Ms. Hall, has been actively involved in these precedent setting cases; time for questions will follow the presentation.

For further information contact Mrs. Pierce, 737-3735.

FASHION SHOW PLANNED

By West Windsor Students. On Friday, May 14, at 8 p.m. the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School COE students and parents will present a fashion show in the high school theater.

Fashions will be presented by the Charming Shoppes of Trenton, featuring the Back Room Boutique. As a special feature there will be a Mary Quant makeup demonstration.

Everyone attending will receive a 10 percent discount ticket which will be honored at all Charming Shoppes. There will be door prizes given and refreshments will be served. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. For ticket information call 799-3181 or 466-0592. All proceeds will help the students pay for their employer-employee banquet.

VAN VISITS SCHEDULED

For Aluminum Recycling. The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling van will be in the Princeton Shopping Center behind the Acme Market on Friday, May 13, and again on May 28 from 10 until 11. Pointing out that during the summer months more soft drinks in all-aluminum cans will be consumed, the Reynolds Company urges residents to bring them to the van where 15 cents a pound will be paid on the spot.

Other household aluminum that is recycleable includes cans, foil, pie pans, frozen food and dinner trays, dip and pudding and meat containers. Recycling helps cut down litter and solid waste, the company explains, and it conserves energy and is an easy way to pick up extra spending money.

TEA IS SCHEDULED

For Medical Center Volunteers. A tea will be given for the Volunteers of the Auxiliary of the Princeton Medical Center to honor those Volunteers who have contributed 500 hours of service to patient care.

Fifty thousand hours are contributed annually by Volunteers to the Medical Center at Princeton. More than 800 men and women of all ages and professions from high school students to retirees devote their time, talent and effort to bring comfort to the sick, companionship to the elderly and confidence to young children.

The recipients of the 500 hour Volunteer pins are: Mrs. Richard Baker, Mrs. Richard Fowler, Mrs. John Frazee, Mrs. George Kellner, Mr. Kenneth Outerbridge, Mr. D. Reed Stuart, Mrs. Lindley Tiers, Mrs. W. J. Tresnan from Princeton; Mrs. James Beaumont, Plainsboro; Mrs. Arthur Evans, Rocky Hill; Mrs. Sylvan Forman and Mrs.

Earl Stannard of Lawrenceville; Mr. Lester Olson and Miss Raquelita Wistar of Jamesburg; and Mrs. Stenson Rogers, Hightstown.

ANTIQUE FAIR DUE

At Shopping Center. Eighty quality dealers in antiques and collectibles will display and sell their wares Saturday, May 22, for the Bicentennial Antique Fair sponsored by the Merchants Association of the Princeton Shopping Center. The potpourri of treasures gathered by dealers from five states will be on view from 10 to 6 on the mall at the Shopping Center, North Harrison Street.

The displays will feature oak furniture, antique jewelry, art glass, fine por-celainst memorabilia, miniatures, clocks, silver, pressed and cut glass, pottery, toys, nostalgia items and many other classifications. An appraisal service will be available during the show. The charge for this service will be $1 per item.

There will be something for everyone, says Gloria Rothstein, coordinator of the show, for the beginning antiquer to the advanced collector. There is no admission charge.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

Here's an oddity ... A player named Bobby Lowe set a big league baseball record on May 30, 1894 that -- amazingly -- has NEVER been topped in all the years since then ... Lowe hit 4 home runs in a game that day, and although that record's been tied, with other players also hitting 4 homers in a game, it has never been broken ... No player has ever been able to hit 5 home runs in any major league game.

Oddly enough, the man who donated the famous Stanley Cup to hockey, Lord Stanley, never saw a Stanley Cup hockey game in his life! ... Lord Stanley was the governor-general of Canada at the time, but never bothered seeing the playoff games named for him.

Many fans know that Joe Nuxhall was the youngest man ever to play in a big league baseball game -- but few know who was the youngest man ever to be a REGULAR in the majors ... Nuxhall pitched for the Reds in 1944 at age 15 -- but he was in just one game and pitched just one inning at that age ... Youngest regular player in big league history was Mel Ott who was playing every day for the Giants in 1926 at the age of 17.

I bet you didn't know ... that loss of income insurance is just as important as health insurance -- and the cost is reasonable.

Eastern Sprints Sunday to Draw Thousands to Lake Carnegie; Princeton Crew Well Rated after Defeating Yale and Cornell

One of the two or three major college rowing events of the 1976 season will be staged Sunday on Lake Carnegie when the Eastern Spring Championships take place.

Titles will be at stake in six events, the freshman, junior varsity and varsity 150-lb. and heavyweight crews from 16 colleges competing. A crowd of several thousand is expected to attend.

Harvard, king-pin of rowing in this section of the country during most of the past decade, is the defending champion in all but one of the events. It captured every race last spring except the freshman 150-lb. event, duplicating its feat of 1974 when only Cornell's victory in the freshman heavyweight race kept the Crimson from total success.

Princeton is expected to make one of its best showings since the spring championships were first staged a quarter-century ago. The Tiger varsity, victor in four of its live races this season, is highly-regarded, as are the freshmen at both the 150-lb. and heavyweight levels. Crew is, however, a good deal of a form sport and there is no great belief that Harvard's dominance will be seriously challenged.

The Crimson is undefeated this year, and holds the Carnegie course record for 2,000 meters. The mark it set a year ago, 5:43.6, is unusually fast for the distance, but Carnegie is widely regarded as one of the best bodies of water in the world for amateur rowing. Dredged three years ago at a cost of $1 million, it affords even conditions for all six competing crews, has only a negligible current and is not adversely affected by anything but the strongest winds -- which are a great rarity here in mid-May.

Fifteen colleges will compete for the heavyweight title, 12 for the 150-lb. championship. In addition to Harvard and Princeton, those seeking the eastern championship are Boston University, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, M.I.T., Navy, Northeastern, Penn, Rutgers, Syracuse, Wisconsin and Yale.

CARNEGIE CUP WON

For First Time Since 1970. As Yale and Princeton crews rowed to victory on successive occasions this spring, word went out that both colleges were off to their best starts since 1964. When the two met on Lake Carnegie Sunday, the Tigers staged a front-running race for the entire 2,000 meters and won by a full length.

The decisive triumph gave the Orange and Black the Carnegie Cup for the first time since 1970. Cornell, victor in the last five contests for this trophy, finished third by a length and a half. Yale has not won in this event in a dozen years.

With Mike Holsten installed at stroke for the first time this spring, Princeton broke away from the stake boats first, and held its lead comfortably. Yale's bid to overcome its deficit failed to materialize; Cornell, trailing markedly at the half-way mark, finally closed to within a half-length of the Elis.

In calm water, Princeton was timed at 6:13.9, Yale at 6:17 and Cornell at 6:18.8. The Elis won both the second varsity and freshman races, with Princeton the runner-up in each and the victor in the second freshman event.

Adding Yale and Cornell to its list of 1976 victims, the Tigers have also defeated Rutgers, Navy, Penn, Columbia and M.I.T., losing only to Harvard. They are rated third best in the East, behind the Crimson and Syracuse.

walked three and was credited with seven strikeouts. He has now hurled 17 and one-third innings of shutout ball.

In the first game at Hanover, senior Mark Softy was treated to a first-inning, two-run homer by Ed Flaherty and took a 4-0 lead into the bottom of the sixth. The two runs Dartmouth managed then were offset by a pair the

BASEBALL PLAYOFFS SET

Tigers May Qualify. One of the District II preliminary playoffs leading up to the NCAA championship for the region will be held in Princeton the weekend of Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 21, 22 and 23. Word was expected later this week on whether Princeton might qualify as one of the four teams to take part in the double elimination round robin.

A sure bet for the event is Temple, East Coast Conference champion and one of the top teams in this district, which includes New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, the District of Columbia and West Virginia. Others due for consideration are Delaware, runner-up in that league; West Virginia, Duquesne and Rutgers, in addition to the Tigers.

The Orange and Black began the week with a 17-8 record since its spring vacation trip to Louisiana and possessor of second place in the Eastern League standings. On the regular schedule was a contest Wednesday at Trenton State, one Friday at Easton with Lafayette and a doubleheader with St. John's on Clarke Field, Saturday at 1.

St. John's, like Temple, is as good as they come around here. The Redmen won 20 of their first 22 games, and will undoubtedly be chosen for the other District II regional, scheduled to be played at Seton Hall. The four-team field there will include Columbia, Eastern League champion (after having finished last in 1975), and Seton Hall, winner of the Met Conference.

At Cambridge on Friday, senior Mike French tied the Princeton record for shutouts in a season when he blanked Harvard, 9-0. The whitewash job was his fifth, equalling the number credited in 1953 to John Emery.

The victory was particularly pleasing to French and the numerous members of the Class of '76 on the team, because Harvard has not only knocked the Tigers out of title contention in the past two years but let them know it has a low regard for the Orange and Black's ability in the sport. The Crimson now joins Yale, Brown and Navy as league teams French has beaten without allowing a run.

Runs Come Easily. Third baseman Eddie Kuchar led the victors' attack with three hits, including a double, while shortstop Dennis Spates and first baseman Kevin Plunkett each added a pair. Princeton opened with two in the first, added another in the fourth and finished matters off with three-run clusters in the sixth and eighth.

Enjoying errorless support, French scattered six hits,

Shuttle Buses Will Run to Finish Line

A special shuttle service from the Jadwin Gymnasium parking lot straight to the finish line will be in operation Sunday for the Eastern Sprints Rowing Championships.

The morning portion of the racing program will start at 8:45 and end around 12:30. The championships and consolation finals will start at 2:30 and run through 5:30.

The shuttle bus service will begin at 8:30 and continue until 6. Buses will leave every ten minutes from both the finish line and the Jadwin parking lot, and there will be a 25 cent charge for transportation each way. Those planning to watch the races may find it more convenient to drive to the Jadwin parking lot and take the bus. Parking near the finish line is extremely limited and cars will be towed away and/or ticketed if they are parked unlawfully.

Tickets for the Sprints are priced at $3, and are good for both sessions.

For over 60 years, the dealer made the difference...

We Ford Dealers share the heritage of Ford's better ideas—from the Model T to the Model A to the first mass-produced station wagons right on up to today's sophisticated Fords.

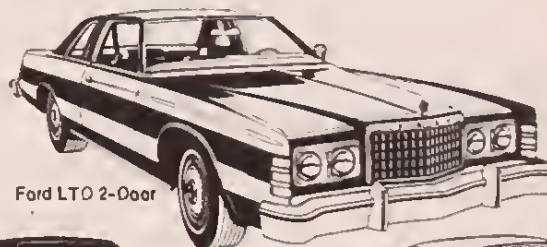

Great cars and great service are a Ford Dealer tradition. We're proving it every day. Come in and look over the Ford LTD, everything a family car should be. Big and road-worthy. Comfortable inside for passengers. Generous in luggage space. (16% more than Chevrolet.) Ideal for trailer towing, too. (It's rated to pull a half ton more than Chevy.)

Or consider a smaller Ford like Granada with its striking similarity in style and riding smoothness to Mercedes 280. Or, if you want basic transportation with flair, check out Ford Pinto, the best-selling small car in the country.

We've got what you want, and it's ready to roll. May we serve you today?

Tigers added in the top of the next round, making it a 6-2 final.

Denny Spates continued to hit hard and often, getting a double and a triple in three trips to the plate. Softy fanned six while yielding as many hits.

Spates added a pair of hits in the second game, giving him six in the three weekend contests, but it was his error in the bottom of the seventh that allowed the Green to tie the score with two out. From a 5-5 deadlock, the home team went on to win in the last of the ninth, 6-5.

Princeton appeared well on the way to sweeping its last six league games when it moved out to a 5-0 lead after two innings in the nightcap. That was all the scoring the Tigers managed, however, and Dartmouth kept making trouble for all three pitchers Len Rivers used. Andy Kannenberg started but was removed for another sophomore, Matt Gorman, with junior Mike O'Brien being tagged for the loss in extra innings.

HEAVY HITTER: Shortstop Peggy Wood is one of the leading ballers on the Princeton High School girls softball team.

And playing against each other, the two schools ended in a 3-3 tie to share the championship.

Tigers Take No. 18. A game that was considered essential to Princeton's participation in the playoffs came its way Monday afternoon when Rider was defeated on Clarke Field, 8 to 5. The home team led all the way after three hits and three outfield errors in the opening inning were parlayed into three runs.

Bob Tufts was the winning pitcher and might have had a ball team last week failed to shutout had not the usually adept Ed Kuchar had a tough day at third base. One of the four errors with which he was charged was a major factor in visiting Notre Dame Friday, the three runs the losers when the Irish scored six runs scored in the sixth, cutting the Princeton's 6-0 lead in two. Kuchar did, however, continue his hot streak at the plate with three hits, a total that catcher Jack Basta matched. The Tigers were good for a dozen hits in all as they raised their record which will be scrutinized for the playoffs to 18-8.

In its first game last week, Princeton lost in 12 innings to Fairleigh-Dickinson at Teaneck. The victors took advantage of unusual basemen Lisa Elden and problems that befell Softy, rightfielder Barbara Miller, who was tagged for 11 hits and all of whom had two hits seven walks. Two of the blows apiece. Notre Dame had a he yielded were home runs triple and double in its big which brought five men across the plate.

The Tigers battled from behind, eventually taking a 6-5 lead in the top of the ninth, but could not hold it for another three outs. Three innings later, a long double drove home the winning run to make it a 7-6 final.

SEASON NEARS END
For Tigers in Lacrosse. Two games at home this week are the last on Princeton's lacrosse schedule. Army was due on Finney Field Wednesday at 3, with Penn here Saturday at 2. The latter contest will close out the coaching career of Art Robinson, who announced his resignation earlier this year to devote full time to his administrative duties in athletics.

Cornell's top-ranked team moved toward successful defense of its Ivy title with a 14-8 victory here Saturday over the Orange and Black. All of the margin was achieved in the first half, most of it in the second period, when the Red accounted for all five of the goals scored.

From a 3-2 advantage after one period, Cornell moved out to an 8-2 lead at halftime and thereafter was content to play even. Each team scored once in the third quarter and five times in the last.

Wick Sollers continued to pace Princeton scoring, producing five of the losers' eight goals. He needs two more in the final two games to break the one-season mark of 42 set three years ago by Bill Chaires.

Earlier in the week, the Tigers enjoyed their fourth

DO OR DIE WEEK
For PHS Nine. There was more bad news last week from the faltering Princeton High School baseball team.

It was limited to two hits by Trenton early in the week, losing 7-0, and then squandered a 6-4 lead to Notre Dame on Thursday when it committed three errors in the fifth inning to allow the Irish to score five unearned runs and escape with a 9-7 victory. The setbacks were the Little Tigers fourth in a row and ninth in 11 starts.

"This is a do or die week for us," said PHS coach Jim O'Neill over the weekend. "It is important for us to finish the season on a good note. We can't have a losing streak at the end."

"When you're .500 or better, it is easy to say 'we'll play one game at a time' but when you're losing like we are you have to have a couple of goals. We have eight games left; we have to win four of the eight."

"That would at least double last year's record and mean

Hill to Try Out for Olympic Basketball

Armond Hill, basketball co-captain at Princeton for the past two years and a major reason for the Tigers' 60-23 record over the past three seasons, has accepted an invitation to try out for the 1976 United States Olympic team.

The Olympic trials will be held at North Carolina State University in Durham from May 30 to June 6, under the direction of University of North Carolina coach Dean Smith.

Smith and his two assistants, Bill Guthrie, assistant coach at North Carolina State, and John Thompson, head coach at Georgetown, will select a 12-man squad which will begin competition in the Olympics at Montreal on July 17.

Hill averaged 13.6 points a game for Princeton during his three-year varsity career, totaled 262 assists and 163 steals, averaged 4.2 rebounds per game and played outstanding defense. He has won All-Ivy honors twice, was named to the 1976 ECAC team and won honorable mention on the Associated Press All-American team. He is considered a top NBA draft selection.

Mrs. Bolster of Princeton was a member of the meet committee of the fourth annual East Coast Masters Individual Swim Meet held this month at Dillon Pool on the Princeton University campus. A "Masters" meet is for swimmers 25 years and older. The more than 200 who competed were divided into five-year age brackets starting at 25-29 through 80 and over.

The Jersey Masters Swim Team, as host and sponsor of the meet, did not compete for team trophies, but an unofficial tab revealed it was an easy winner.

Ten members of the New and a teammate of Jersey Masters team, most of whom train mornings from 6 to 7:30 at the Dillon pool and Community Park pool in the summer, won individual yard events.

Most successful were Mrs. Bolster and Jim Pendergrass, who, incidentally, ran the first three Master meets here. Mrs. Bolster, competing in the 45-49 bracket, won both the 200-yard butterfly and breaststroke, the 400-yard individual medley and 100-yard butterfly. She finished second in the 200-yard backstroke.

Mr. Pendergrass (55-59) a computer specialist for the Institute for Defense Analysis, was first in the 200-yard butterfly, 400-yard IM, 1650-yard freestyle and second in the 500-yard free.

Alma Saunders (70-74) of Kendall Park won the 500-yard freestyle, while Lillian Black (65-69) an artist, captured the 50-yard free. She was second in the 100-yard backstroke.

Ted Snow (25-29) Yale '69 and a teammate of Schollander won the 200-yard breaststroke. He finished second in the 50 and 100-yard breast and second in the 100-yard free.

Ed Breisacher (40-44) captain of the 1954 Princeton University swim team, finished second in the 100-yard that we also played .500 ball the last eight games of the season."

The Little Tigers will be at Lawrence Thursday and Hightstown on Tuesday - the last of a string of seven consecutive away games. They were scheduled to play a strong Hamilton team this Wednesday.

In some respects, the present season is even more trying to O'Neill than his first last year, when PHS posted a 3-17 record. "Everybody knows what you're doing wrong when you're losing," he said.

"At this point in the season you have a morale problem, even though you have basically good guys on the team." Jim Lennon is out for the year and Dave Robinson, John Boccanfuso and Dave Seagers had been benched for a week for discipline problems.

At the same time, O'Neill has been bringing up players from the jayvee squad in an effort to find the combination that will end the slump. Recently, as many as eight on the starting nine have been underclassmen. His starting pitching staff has evolved to Keith Phox, Al Kandell and Carl Nazzaro -- all sophomores.

"We have to find a more effective way to do well the things we can do but we haven't been able to do it yet," O'Neill continued. "The pitching is ready to jell. If we play the defense we know we are capable of, if we get the offense going like when we got those seven runs against Notre Dame or the clutch hitting we got in the two games we won, there's no reason why we can't win five or six of our last eight."

The Buck Stops Here. O'Neill insisted on shouldering the responsibility for the team's record. If there is anyone to blame, it's me, he said. "Poor coaching. There's no other explanation."

An example of the misfortune besetting the Little Tigers was the loss to Notre Dame. PHS, which has been struggling to produce runs, this time pushed four across in the first inning on hits by Paul Soderman and Mike Boonin.

PHS added two more to cling to a 6-4 lead, when disaster struck in the fifth. "The most consistent part of our game has been our pretty sound defensive play," commented O'Neill. It broke down, however, as the Irish loaded the bases on three PHS errors.

Usually reliable shortstop Scott Thompson, who added two hits with his bat, was guilty of two miscues and had, said O'Neill, "his worst inning of the year. If we weren't so down, these things would pass over but it was a shame to give it away like that."

Boonin, who came on in the fifth with two down and yielded all five runs, was charged with the loss. Kandell started for PHS. Alex and Jamie Robertson had doubles for PHS.

Against Trenton, only Kandell and sophomore outfielder John Rosenthal, the latter up from the jayvee playing his first varsity game, got hits off hurler Steve Smith as Trenton won its 12th.

The Tornados scored two runs in each of the first three innings. Phox (1-3) was the losing pitcher.

breaststroke, third in the 50-yard breast and fourth in the 200-yard breast. Editor of the University Press and a '65 graduate of Princeton, Sandy Thatcher captured thirds in the 200-yard backstroke, the 200 and 400-yard IMs. He also had two fourths and a sixth. He competes in the 30-34 bracket.

Jean Dorgan (40-44) a teacher in the Ewing school system, was second in the 100-yard backstroke, third in the 100-yard IM and third in the 200-yard free.

Jim Doig (40-44) professor at the Woodrow Wilson School, finished fourth, fifth and sixth respectively in the 100-yard, 50-yard and 200-yard breaststroke. Lawrenceville resident Adrian Heffern (45-49) was second in the 50-yard backstroke and fourth in the 50-yard free. He also had a sixth and seventh.

PHS IS 4-1 VICTOR

Over PDS in Tennis. Sweeping past West Windsor and Lawrence earlier in the week, the Princeton High School tennis team added Princeton Day School to its list Friday, defeating the visiting Panthers, 4-1. It was the Little Tigers ninth straight win and tenth in 11 matches.

Interest centered in the number one singles, as undefeated Dan Aronovic of PHS tangled with Keith Usiskin who entered the match with a 5-3 record. Aronovic won the first set 6-4, but then lost the next two, 4-6, 3-6.

Aronovic had defeated Usiskin indoors the previous week, commented PHS coach Joe Diefenbach, "...and I think Danny was a little over confident, especially after winning the first set."

In other singles play, Phil Ebersole of PHS defeated Simon Hutner, 6-1, 6-4 and Allen Aronovic remained unbeaten in singles play with a 6-3, 6-3 triumph over Ken Cain.

In doubles play, Louis Snijders and Dave Bowen defeated Andrew Hildick-Smith and Nick Donath, 6-0, 6-3, and Andy Besser and Mike Loew stopped Ted Stabler and Jeff Swishen, 6-4, 6-0. Princeton Day's record fell to 3-5.

HUN ROLLS ON

Final Games Ahead. A teammate of Hun School baseball coach Bill McQuade, when the two are playing in the Princeton Adult Softball League, remarked recently that "Bill was born to teach baseball."

The record bears him out. Now in his fifth year as coach at Hun, McQuade is in the process of compiling a standout career. The former Princeton High School captain has Hun on top again this year as the Red and Black won two more last week to increase its record to 11-3.

Hun was scheduled to wind up its regular season play at Germantown Friends on Friday and Blair Academy on Wednesday. It was scheduled to play its final home game this Wednesday at 3:15 against Mitchell Prep. Ahead lay games for the Penn-Jersey League and N.J. State Prep School championships.

In its most recent start, Hun ripped George School Friday, 11-3. Ernie Barbiero, who pitched the final three and two-thirds innings without giving up a hit, won his sixth of the year. He also tripled and drove in two runs. Tim Teel added a double for Hun. The losers made it easy by committing six errors.

Hun's most satisfying win by far had to be last Wednesday's 9-5, last-inning triumph over Pennington School. Both teams had entered the contest 5-0 in league play and Pennington came within three outs of sending visiting Hun home with its first Penn-Jersey setback.

Pennington had just taken a one-run lead on pitcher Darren Ford's triple and a wild pitch by Hun's Tommy Summers. But Ford's and Pennington's dream of victory were soon buried under seven straight Hun hits in the final inning.

First, catcher Jack Porcelli tripled and third baseman Pete Sciabetta doubled to tie it at 4. Bob Mendelson singled home Sciabetta and then came home moments later on Barbiero's double. Tom Dunn, Tim Teel and Jim Cortina added singles as Hun pushed across six runs. Hun outthit the home team, 13 to 8.

Summers got the win, his fifth without a loss.

6-5 VICTORY FOR PHS
In Grueling Lacrosse Game. After the Princeton High School lacrosse team had been humiliated, 18-1, last Wednesday by Johnson Regional, the former Clark Lacrosse Club, for one of the worst defeats in PHS history, the Little Tigers had to meet Hanover Park on Saturday, a team that had defeated Johnson Regional this season.

The result? It was long in coming but after two overtime and three sudden-death periods, PHS defeated Hanover Park, 6-5, when Chris Cahill scored his second goal of the season, assisted by Steve Mapes. "What a time to come!" commented PHS coach Bill Cirullo.

And what a difference a year makes. Last year PHS was losing all its games by one goal; this spring, three of its four wins, including the one over Johnson Regional, have been by one goal.

PHS will entertain Newton next Wednesday at 3:30 at the PHS football field. It was scheduled to play host to Summit this Wednesday at 3:45. After these two games, only one with Moorestown remains. PHS is currently 4-6.

Cirullo described the Hanover Park win as "extremely exciting" and "grueling." Speaking of all the extra periods, he said "those are trying minutes. You can't afford to make a single mistake and we didn't. Our conditioning program paid off in this game."

Robert Willis was a standout in the goal for PHS with 37 saves.

PHS fell behind, 5-3, after leading 3-2 at the half. Early in the fourth period, PHS tied it on goals by Stu Brown (he had three for the day) and Morgan Mohrman. Jamie Leshar also scored for PHS.

Cirullo called Mohrman's performance, (he also had three assists) "his best effort of the year. He helped control the offense and played an excellent game." Mohrman is the PHS scoring leader with 14 assists.

"We beat a real fine team today," said Cirullo, still savoring the victory. His club still has a shot at a winning season and the triumph over Hanover Park may have been all the impetus PHS needed.

"Like Storm Troopers." "I never lost such a game in my life; it was humiliating for all of us," said Cirullo about the Johnson Regional rout, which was 180 degrees from the Hanover Park win. "They came out like storm troopers."

Johnson Regional played well and PHS played poorly, and as Cirullo observed, "that was the demise for us." He reported that the victors had 50 or 60 shots on goal as compared to three or four for PHS. Johnny Morris scored the lone PHS goal.

WESTWINDSOR VICTOR

Over PHS Track Team. Weakness in the hurdle events cost the Princeton High School track team again as visiting West Windsor swept both the 120 and 330-yard hurdles to forge a 74½-56½ victory on Monday.

Some PHS mainstays came through again. Barry Turner won the javelin (162-6) and long jump (20-0½) and Tony Strong finished first in the 100 and 220-yard sprints. His times: 10.4 and 23.7. Royce Flippin captured the mile with a clocking of 4:30.6 while Japhet Woolston won the 880 in 2:07.4.

Fred Berkelhammer cleared 6-0 to win the high jump for PHS but the Pirates swept the discus, won the pole vault and took first and second in the shot put, sharing third place with Princeton's Eric Suber.

Among those finishing second for PHS were Nick Piroué in the two-mile, Strong in the 440, Rich Mosley in the javelin and Ron Reiman in the vault.

LITTLE TIGERS BURIED

By Trenton in Track. Undefeated Trenton High School last week won every race to bury Princeton High School, 110-21. It was the Tornadoes' fourth 100-point win of the season.

Princeton's only wins came in the field events. Barry Turner won the javelin with a toss of 163-4 and Fred Berkelhammer the high jump with a leap of 5-10. Chris Elden was third at 5-6. In the pole vault, Bob Ayling and Ron Reiman of PHS finished first and third with vaults of 10-6 and 9-6.

Trenton swept the shot put, discus, long jump, 220, 330-hurdles, 120-hurdles and 440.

TOURNAMENT IN SOCCER

Scheduled for Saturday. The Princeton Soccer Club will stage a tournament Saturday, involving its teams and others from Methacton, Pa., Fairfax and Chantilly, Va.

Round-robin games will be played for the juniors at Valley Road School and for intermediates at Gulick Field on the lower Princeton University campus near Washington Road. Action will begin at noon, with the public welcome to attend at no charge.

In Fairfax, Va., earlier this month two Princeton teams played three games, losing two and earning a 2-2 tie. In the game which the intermediates earned a deadlock with the Little River Soccer Club, goals were scored by Charlie Bolster and Ed Farley, with assists credited to Tad Wislar and Porter Gillespie.

PHS LOSES, HUN WINS

In Baseball. In games played Monday, Princeton High School dropped a 4-1 decision to Hopewell Valley and Hun edged Lawrence High, 2-1.

Hopewell hurler Cliff Ashton needed only 68 pitches to mow down the Little Tigers, limiting them to three hits. Keith Phox of PHS yielded six, including a single and triple to Carl Braun. Hopewell scored single runs in four separate innings, while PHS pushed across its lone run in the second to tie it at 1.

Phox, Al Kandell and Jamie Robertson collected the three hits of Ashton. PHS saw its record dip to 2-10; Hopewell Valley's climbed to 8-6.

Barbiero Again. Ernie Barbiero continues to be a one-man wrecking crew for Hun. The transfer student from Ewing did it all again, pitching a four-hitter to notch his seventh victory in 10 decisions and doubling home the tying run in the fifth. He then scored the winning run on a base hit by Tim Teel in the final inning.

Barbiero fanned eight. Lawrence's only run in the fourth was unearned. Hun's record is 12-3, Lawrence's 7-8-1.

PHS IS 8-3 VICTOR

In Girls' Lacrosse. The Princeton High School girls' lacrosse team fought off a slow start and came on to defeat home-team Chatham Township, 8-3, last week in its only game. Coach Joyce Jones' squad is now 4-1.

The Little Tigers will replay Chatham at home Thursday afternoon at 3:30 on the field behind the high school.

Sandals, Tribal Robes, Bread Boards All Part Of West African Tennis, Shawn Tully Finds

It's hardly your basic whites.

Some play in sandals and tribal robes with rackets that contain three or four different kinds of stringing and tennis balls long worn smooth from extended use. In some countries the racket might be a wooden bread board.

Players shun strategy and love to slam the ball. If a match can be enlivened with a little fun they respond with interest and imagination.

This is tennis in West Africa. It isn't on a par with tennis in this country, but a resident of tennis-minded Princeton has recently spent three months in Africa trying to narrow the gap.

Shawn Tully, a life-long player and teacher of tennis returned home recently after a 12-week visit. His tour, sponsored by the U.S. State Department and the United States Lawn Tennis Association, took him to seven underdeveloped nations of West Africa: Senegal, Liberia, Nigeria, Cameroon, Togo, Ghana and Morocco.

A former captain of the Hun School tennis team and a member of the squad at Princeton University where he graduated in 1970, Tully, who lives on Jefferson Road, was joined in the trip by Stephen Devereux of Boston. Four of the seven countries they visited are French-speaking and Tully, who did graduate work in Europe, speaks French quite well so no language barrier existed.

Their job? There were three priorities, as explained by Tully. To coach and teach local teachers; to work with the national teams and established players of each country and to work with children and beginners, both young and adult.

"The most important was to instruct teachers," said Tully, "because that would have the longest lasting effect. Our forte was group teaching techniques."

Group teaching, incidentally, is one of the keystones of the Princeton Community Tennis Program, which helped develop Tully as a player, and whose methods have been widely copied throughout the country. The Education and Research office of the USLTA is located in Princeton; it is headed by John Conroy and Eve Kraft, long time directors of the PCTP.

Cheapest and Most Effective. Group teaching techniques, in comparison to private or semi-private instruction, is by far the cheapest and most effective way to reach a large number of players, Tully commented. He and Devereux would instruct 30 or 40 students at one time.

"By teaching teachers who, in turn, would teach large could muster in the opening half against Chatham but in the second, Princeton's double-barreled attack of Mina Wert and Amy Shillaber opened up. Wert scored three goals and Shillaber, two. Lucy Baruch added another.

In the N.J. Lacrosse Playday held Saturday at Newark Academy in Livingston, PHS and Princeton Day School tied 3-3 in the final game in the advanced bracket. Rather than go into sudden death, both teams were declared champion. PDS defeated the Little Tigers earlier this month for their only loss.

GIRLS WIN PAIR

But Lose to PDS. The Princeton High School girls tennis team blanked West Windsor and Lawrence, 5-0 last week, but lost to Princeton Day School for the first time in three years, 3-2.

Only Karen Clark and Vera

numbers of children the reverberations would reach hundreds of children," Tully said.

Tully's "students" ranged from children who never saw a racket before to adults, physical education teachers and members of the armed forces. In oil-rich Nigeria where the tennis program is heavily subsidized by the government, Tully taught approximately 40 teachers from major universities and members of the army; in Legos, the capital, physical education teachers were invited to attend his work shops. "They weren't good players, but they had good potential as teachers," said Tully.

In Winneba, near Accra the capital of Ghana, Tully taught another group of 75 physical education teachers during a week of instruction.

What is tennis like in undeveloped Africa? "Basically, it is undeveloped—like the whole economic and political situation. There is," Tully said, "a lack of good competitive environment and a lack of money to buy good equipment."

There are perhaps two tournaments a year and players are unable to travel to find outside tournaments.

Start as Ball Boys. Most players started as ball boys observing the rich play, Tully commented. "They'd pick up a racket and hit a few balls but it is strictly through imitation. They have no idea of technique. Most are kids off the street, raised in poverty."

"Once they become of sufficient wealth, they lose their competitive edge; they become teachers rather than players."

In Tully's opinion, two things must be done. More trips like his to enrich the knowledge of teachers and had what Americans had, it more government support to purchase equipment and send players to tournaments in Europe.

Jesser, the number one and two singles players for PHS, were able to notch wins against Princeton Day. Said PHS coach Carol Wimberg, "PDS has a very good team; we deserved to lose." The setback was Princeton High's second this year.

In the Mercer County Indoor Tennis Tournament held during the weekend for players from all schools in the county, PHS reached the final round in both singles and doubles play.

Jesser lost to Jill Migliore of PDS while the Little Tiger pairing of Ellie Rose and Lora Jaffin lost in the doubles finals, again to PDS.

It was a different story as far as the PHS boys were concerned.

Dan Aronovic of PHS defeated Paul Rubin of Lawrenceville School for the singles crown and Dave Despite all the handicaps, however, Tully reported that African players have an instinctive sense of rhythm and timing... superb players who lack sophisticated strokes such as volleying at the net, but who more than make up for it in their joie de vivre approach.

They also tend to be easy going, he added, and not competitive. "They lack the dogged competitive instinct all U.S. kids have." There is, says Tully, a cultural difference, too. Because of a poor diet, most African players do not have the same endurance as players from this country.

Life is so economically depressing, one's horizons so limited in Africa, Tully observed, that the Africans have a sense of irony about everything, "which, I feel, is the root of their humor."

And this ingrained sense of humor in approaching tennis is what Tully feels is one of the major assets the Africans have going for them. "They played with so much spontaneity, interest and enthusiasm that I believe this is the major advantage in extending tennis to other students. They love tennis when it's fun and they'll try to make it fun for those they teach."

Tully returned home with an armful of personal anecdotes and this general observation between Americans and Africans which, though it has been repeated many times before, acknowledged Tully, did not lessen its impact on him.

"There is a certain amount of satisfaction and contentment among the Africans despite their lack of mobility and affluence. Americans have so much more yet they want more."

Americans, whatever level they achieve aspire for more; Africans are more content with what they have. If they had what Americans had, it would be like paradise. They couldn't even dream it. It would be the height of luxury—an impossible dream."

Bowen and Louis Snijders won the doubles title over their Lawrence High opponents, taking the third, tie-breaking set, 5-4.
